SHORTAGE EXCEEDS $160,000

BIDDEFORD, Me., Aug. 15.—Notices were sent out to-day to the 4,000 depositors of the York County Savings Bank, which closed its doors, in an effort to ascertain how much the deposed treasurer's shortage exceeds the known $160,000, which according to one of the trustees, is less than the real amount.

Richmond H. Ingersoll, aged seventy-seven, treasurer of the institution for fifty years, is lying at the point of death. He has now been unconscious three days, and the worst is feared. Harold Staples has been chosen to take his place and Staples, together with State Bank Examiner William B. Skelton of Lewiston and President C. H. Prescott of the bank, to-day resumed the investigation.

Salary Only $1,800.

Ingersoll, who salary was $1,800 a year, maintained a handsome home in this city and a Summer residence at Old Orchard. He had one of the first motor boats on the river and the first automobile owned in this city. His hobby on mechanics has been known to everyone. He maintained a machine shop where one and sometimes two skilled machinists were employed. He was interested in a web drawing machine invention which turned out a financial loss.

One of the bank's trustees to-day ridiculed the idea that pri- of service on the part of Ingersoll led him to falsify the books to conceal losses on Western investments. He pointed out what he termed the absurdity of the treasurer's bearing the burdens of the bank for twenty-five years to conceal losses made in investments passed on by an investment committee, in this case the bank trustees.

"The story about false entries in the bank books to cover up losses on Western investments," said the trustee, "does no. accord with the fact that these losses had been charged to the profit and loss account and the accounts balanced some years ago. If Mr. Ingersoll was able to carry out these falsifications for twenty-five years, as the statement issued explained, why was not the discrepancy discovered during all these years by a bank examiner?"

Mistake Betrayed Act.

When Mr. Ingersoll arrived here from his Summer home he sent a note to his wife giving the bearer instructions not to deliver it until the next day. The note was delivered the same morning, however, and Mrs. Lord and Harry H. Goodwin went to the city home, where they found the aged treasurer in a serious condition.

The delayed sending of this note and the leaving of the letter of confession to the trustees locked in his desk at the bank is interpreted by many as proof that when Mr. Ingersoll left Old Orchard and went to the city home he intended to stay there until his body was discovered.

WOMAN, 100, SLEEPS AFTER 14 MONTHS

BROCKTON, Aug. 15.—Mrs. Mary Turcotte, 100 years old, the oldest woman in Brockton, slept for the first time in fourteen months, after seeing her son, Joseph C., who arrived from Omaha, following an absence of five years. Throughout the fourteen months during which time she hasn't slept, Mrs. Turcotte mourned for her son. When he arrived she declared that she believed that her sleepless spell, which has puzzled all the physicians in this city, was at an end.

BUILD MOTOR BOAT TO CROSS ATLANTIC

ALBANY, Aug. 15.—Next year is to see for the first time in history a motor boat crossing the Atlantic on its own gasoline fuel. Frank M. Dennis, a New York banker and yachtsman, who is here on a flying visit with his wife and family, said today that he is building a giant eighty-foot motor boat on which he will cruise direct from New York city, across mid-Atlantic, to the English Channel, thence by way of the Seine and the Seine canals into Paris.

Spanish Boat and Crew in International Race

CUTTERS WILL PATROL SONDER RACE COURSE

MARBLEHEAD, Aug. 15.—With the arrival of the revenue cutter Gresham, one of the detail of government boats assigned to patrol the sonder yacht course, preparations for the international race, beginning Wednesday, have taken on an official air. The cutters Acushnet and Androscoggin are expected to-day or to-morrow. The custom officers sprang a surprise in chartering the Kelpis for inspection of power boats, according to the new regulations which went into effect July 9.

The six sonder boats which are to compete have been officially measured. The Spanish team, Chonta, Mosquito II and Papoose, and the American defenders, Beaver, Cima and Harpoon, were weighed and measured by W. Starling Burgess of the Eastern Yacht Club and Senor D. Eduardo de Ubao, secretary of the Spanish Federation of Yacht Clubs and official representative of Spain.

The crews of the Spanish boats were busy to-day in rigging and getting everything in first-class shape. Though the visitors say they are not very condident of winning, they are nevertheless going to give the Yankees a run for their money. They are on the most cordial terms with the local yachtsmen. Most of them do not speak English, but everybody appears to know French. The visitors have all the intense exuberance of the Latins and are loud in their praise of "your wonderful country." The guitar tinkles from the verandas of the Eastern Yacht Club and the soft voices of Southern Europe float over the harbor. The visitors are enthusiastic over their reception.

The series of races will begin at 11 a. m. Wednesday and continue every day except Sunday until the winner is declared. The President Taft cup will be presented to the winning crew on board the Mayflower, August 24, at which time the Spanish crews will meet President Taft. They are looking forward to this meeting with eagerness.

These races will mark the first occasion when the red and yellow colors of Spain have flown on yachts in these waters.

RAMPOLLA IN CHARGE; MAY PACIFY SPAIN

MADRID, Aug. 15.—Cardinal Merry Del Val, papal secretary of state, is held responsible for the rupture between the Vatican and Madrid, in a semi-official note issued to-day. This is believed to be the first step toward considering proposals for peace from Cardinal Rampolla, now in charge in Rome, and which are understood to be on the way to Madrid.

Such a conclusion is also drawn from the statement that Del Val did not consult the congregation of extraordinary ecclesiastical affairs.

Rome dispatches say Umberto Benigni, under secretary to Cardinal Del Val, is en route to Madrid with a secret proposal for the settlement of the Madrid-Vatican dispute. A compromise both in regard to the limitation and taxation of religious orders and the extension of the rights of Protestants is said to eb the most important feature of the suggestions.

PRESSURE DRIVES COTTON PRICE DOWN

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Pressure on the cotton options drove prices until a net loss of from 16 to 18 points (30 to 90 cents a bail) was shown on the New York Exchange to-day. At this point support came out in sufficient volume to cause a rally of from 5 to 6 points, and the market turned irregular. No stop loss orders were uncovered on the break.

BEALS WRIGHT WINS TENNIS AT NEWPORT

NEWPORT, Aug. 15.—Unfavorable weather greeted the lawn tennis experts who gathered here to-day to begin play in the thirtieth annual contest, all-comers' national championship in singles, the title which is now held by William A. Larned. Fog with an occasional dash of rain formed the setting for the opening play. There were 181 entrants.

The match between Wallace F. Johnson and Theodore Roosevelt Pell proved the leading attraction of the forenoon.

The personnel of ten team England will send to battle for the Davis international challenge cup was made known here to-day. The players nominated are J. C. Parke and D. P. Dixon, who played in Philadelphia last year; T. M. Nevrogeddato, the Welch expert, and A. P. Lowe. The matches are to be played at Christ Church, New Zealand, this year.

The feature match of the day was between M. E. McLaughlin, the marvelous boy expert from the Pacific, and R. M. Grant of Atlanta, in which the former won three straight sets. Summary:

FIRST ROUND.

Beals C. Wright defeated William Rosenbaum, 6—3, 6—1, 6—2.
F. L. Fraley defeated J. F. Dalmert by default.

U .S. TROOPS COMING HERE FOR BIG PARADE

In response to his efforts to secure a detail of United States troops to participate in the Columbus Day parade, October 12, Congressman Andrew J. Peters has received word from Adjutant General Ainsworth of the War Department that the Commanding General, Department of the East, has been instructed to send the Tenth Coast Artillery Band and a battalion of troops to Boston for the celebration. It is estimated that the number of men in the parade will be nearly 50,000.

FALLS OUT OF WINDOW FROM THIRD FLOOR

Patrick Walsh, a baker, was sitting on the window sill of his home on the third floor of No. 21 Moulton streetl, Charlestown, to-day, when he lost his balance and fell to the ground, a distance of twenty-five feet. He was taken to the Relief Hospital, where it was found that his right leg was fractured and he had sustained injuries to his left arm and shoulder. He is thirty years old.

HELD IN $1,000 FOR GIRL'S DEATH

James D. Ferguson of No. 210 Main street, Charlestown, was held for the grand jury under bonds of $1,000 by Chief Justice Bolster in the Municipal Court to-day on the charge of manslaughter. It is claimed that Ferguson, while driving a heavy wagon on Commercial street, July 28, ran own and killed Miss Josephine Vigneau, thirty-four, of No. 25 Calvin street, Somerville. At the hearing to-ay Ferguson waived examination.

BOY KILLED IN JUMPING ON WAGON

Michael Barobosco, fifteen, was run over and killed to-day while attempting to climb on to a moving wagon in front of his home at No. 35 Ferry street, in the North End. The boy fell from the side, under the wheels. He received multiple injuries about the head and body, and died when the ambulance in which he was arrived at the Relief Hospital. The wagon was owned by Charles Lawrence and was driven by Angelo Bimbo.

7 HURT IN TRAIN WRECK

BRISTOL, Ct., Aug. 15.—Two engineers and five passengers were injured in a head-on collision on the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad here to-day. The crash took place at the railroad station, where Train No. 116, which was on the way from Waterbury to Boston, where it was due at 12:30, was standing on the single track, when Train No. 1703 from New Britain for Poughkeepsie, and bound in the opposite direction, bumped the locomotive of the former. None of the Boston passengers were injured.

Train No. 116 was due at Bristol at 7:45, and the other train was scheduled to reach there two minutes later. Failure to send a man ahead to flag Train No. 1703 is believed to be the cause of the wreck. The locomotives of both trains were badly damaged, and passengers who escaped were severely jolted by the crash. There was a panic, and passengers plied pellmell from the cars after the jar, which threw some out of seats and others off their feet.

Facts as to the cause of the smash have not been given out. One report is that brakes failed to work on Train No. 1703. One engineer sustained a fracture of the right leg.

2,000 ATTEND THE FUNERAL OF ROBERT T. PAINE

The funeral of Robert Treat Paine was held in Trinity Church at noon to-day and attended by fully two thousand persons, including many distinguished friends of the late philanthropist.

The service was conducted by Bishop William Lawrence, assisted by Rev. Dr. Alexander Mann, rector of Trinity; Rev. Reuben Kidner, Rev. Ernest C. Tuthill and Rev. George Hodges of the Cambridge Theological Seminary. Prior to the body being brought to Boston, prayers were said at the Waltham home by Rev. George Paine, son of the deceased. The music at Trinity, which was of a very simple nature, was rendered by a vested choir of twenty male voices.

The honorary pallbearers were Colonel Charles R. Codman, Major Henry Lee Higginson, General Samuel C. Lawrence and Frank B. Sanborn, representing the class of Harvard '55, of which Mr. Paine was a member; Thomas B. Sears, Charles W. Dexter, Dr. Alfred Worcester, Rev. Henry S. Nash, Dr. James J. Putnam, Samuel B. Capen and Robert A. Woods of the South End House.

The ushers were Richard Sears, Ronald T. Lyman, Robert Treat Paine, 2d., William P. Lyman, Charles J. Paine, all nephews of the deceased, and Edmund Billings and J. J. S. Peterson.

Representatives from many of the charitable organizations in which Mr. Paine was interested were present at the funeral, there being men from the American Peace Society, Massachusetts Prison Association, People's Institute, the Workingmen's Co-operative Society and the Associated Charities.

Prominent among the friends of the deceased present at the services were Judge Marcus Morton, Charles R. Saunders, Hon. Charles S. Hamlin, Franklin W. Hobbs, Rev. Louis Cornish, Roland Lyman, Roger Merriam, Richard Sears, John H. Storer, Charles K. Cummings, Erving Winslow and Edward D. Mead.

Following the services in Trinity the body was interred in the family plot on Opal Park avenue in Mt. Auburn Cemetery, the committal service being read by Bishop William Lawrence. The services at Mt. Auburn were private.

FOUR KILLED BY RUNAWAY TRAIN

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 15.—Four men were instantly killed and several others were injured, some fatally, when a Chesapeake & Ohio equipment train ran away on a steep grade and struck a freight train at Handley. The dead: John P. Dwyer, engineer; Ben Allman, track foreman; Andrew P. Rock, coal miner; Reuben Dean, blacksmith.

The entire force of the Sparrell Print Company, one of the seven firms whose application for an injunction against Photo-Engravers' Union No. 3 is being heard before a master, returned to work to-day after a strike lasting three weeks. All their demands were granted. Under the agreement they will have an eight-hour day and a minimum wage of $21 a week. The company will recognize the union.

LINER AFIRE NEAR FRIENDLY ISLANDS

AUCKLAND, N. Z., Aug. 15.—The Union liner Atua, from New York, was to-day reported afire near the Friendly Islands with her cargo badly damaged, and her crew exhausted by a long fight. Efforts to send her aid are being made. The Friendly Islands lie about fifteen hundred miles north of Auckland.

DIDN'T SUPPORT FAMILY.

For the non-support of his wife and four children, Albert J. M. McClelland of No. 44 Ward street, South Boston, was given six months in the House of Correction at Deer Island by Judge Fallon in the South Boston District Court to-day. A charge of drunkenness against McClelland was placed or file.

MISS EMILY T. WILLARD

BOSTON GIRL TO MAKE FLIGHT AT ENFIELD MEET

Miss Emily T. Willard of Melrose, who aspires to become the first professional aviator in America, will make aeroplane flights at the aviation exhibition to be held at Enfield, Ct., Wednesday. The exhibition is for the benefit of the Visiting Nurses' Association of Enfield.

Miss Willard, who is already announced as one of the aviators for the big Harvard aviation meet in September, has made airship flights with her brother, Charles F. Willard, who is now one of the foremost sky-pilots in the land, or in the air, rather. It was Charles F. Willard whose aeroplane was brought to earth at Joplin, Mo., last June by a bullet fired evidently by some Missourian with more markmanship than brains.

May Fly With Brother.

The announcement that Miss Willard will fly at the Enfield meet lends tremendous interest to that event. She will fly with her brother in the exhibitions for distance, height and general control of the machine. She may not fly alone at Enfield as her parents and her brother have not let her venture that far in the perils of sky navigation. But, when the spectators at Enfield see her step into the aeroplane with her brother and assist him in running it, they will be treated to a new development in woman's progress down in the old Connecticut village.

At the coming Harvard meet Miss Willard will fly alone if she can secure the family permission. She is not afraid. She does not know the meaning of the word fear. Her sentiments on flying are:

"You just don't feel that you are going. There's nothing that sails so smoothly as an airship. You travel quickly and you never want to stop. My brother has wonderful control over the machine. I am fast learning how to run it."

During the Los Angeles aviation meet Miss Willard took an active part. She made several flights with her brother and suffered no mishap.

General Holiday Proclaimed.

The Enfield exhibition will take place on a field off King street. The day will be a general holiday in Enfield and Thompsonville. The Thompsonville Carpet Mills may close for the afternoon. The trolley and railroad lines will run special trains and cars. Entrance to the aviation field will be by special buttons, which can be procured in advance at the gate and at stores in Springfield and Hartford. Parking space will be provided for the many auto parties which are expected. There will be band music in the afternoon and evening.

The Willards use Curtiss machines. The one which Charles F. Willard uses is the very machine with which Glenn H. Curtiss won a noted trophy.

OVERDUE ANTARCTIC SHIP IS REPORTED

LONDON, Aug. 15.—A cable from Cape Town reports that the Terra Nova, the ship on which Captain Scott will take his Antarctic expedition, and which was fifteen days overdue, was sighted to-day. Captain Scott will board the ship here and the expedition will get under way as soon as possible.

SAY JEALOUSY WAS MOTIVE FOR KILLING

The police of Boston and New York, as well as the authorities of all New England cities and towns, were asked to-day to look for Nicholas Capsalis, suspected of murdering his aunt, Maritsa Capalista, with whom he boarded, at their home in Somersworth, N. H.

The victim was choked to death and her body hid in a flour barrel in the cellar of the house. Jealousy of a man whom the woman had promised to marry is believed to have been the motive for the atrocious crime. The crime was probably committed last Wednesday evening.

FUGITIVE IS TRACED BY BIDDEFORD POLICE.

The last trace of the fugitive was found in Biddeford, where the police of that city said to-day they had located Capsalis as late as 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. No trace of him could be found later than that, and the Biddeford police believe that he made his way eastward, probably to Portland, with the idea of escaping to Boston or New York to take a boat to Greece.

Deputy Sheriff Edward Clark came to Lowell to-day on a tip that a man resembling Capsalis had been seen there. Clark got in touch with John Regis, a Greek officer in Lowell, and together they hunted through that city. Later Clark said:

Jealous of Suitor.

"I don't believe he got to this city. I have just heard that he may be in Biddeford and I am going to take Regis there with me. He can find Capsalis if anybody can. While he does not know him personally he has talked with men who do and could pick him out if he saw him."

The man of whom Capsalis was jealous is Nicholas Kallias of Biddeford. He formerly kept a restaurant at Somersworth. While there he became acquainted with Mrs. Capalieta, and it is believed they were about to be married.

Capsalis, twenty-four years of age and fiery, was against the proposed union. He said there were reasons why his aunt should not marry the man and declared that she had a husband in Greece.

The general belief in Somersworth is that he feared that if the marriage took place he would lose his aunt as a housekeeper and possibly some of her income, as she was employed regularly. She had saved, it is estimated, between $200 and $300, which she carried in a bag about her neck.

Woman's Money Missing.

This money was gone when the body of the woman was found in the barrel. It has been suggested that some of the marks on the woman's throat may have been made in an effort to tear the money-bag away.

The dead woman was about thirty-five years of age. She and her nephew were weavers. They had lived in Somersworth several years and got along amicably until Kallais became attentive to Mrs. Capalitsa. On Wednesday evening Capsalisa met Pierre Beauchemin, a neighbor, and remarked casually:

"I'm going away to-morrow morning. I think I'll go back to the old country. I'd go to-night, but my aunt is sick and I can't get away."

On Thursday Beauchemin went to see how the woman was, but be could not get in. He saw no one about the house. By Saturday he began to suspect that something was wrong. He got some friends and they broke into the house.

Find Body In Cellar.

They went through the house, and one of them went down into the cellar. On the side next to the street he noticed a barrel, on top of which were ashes and shavings, and thrusting his hand down into it felt what he thought was hair. He shouted to his companions, who helped him turn the barrel over, it being very heavy, and they found therein the body of the missing woman.

Medical Referee Forrest L. Keay of Rochester and Deputy Medical Referee George A. Tolman of Dover, who performed the autopsy, found that the woman had been throttled and choked to death. Every ring of cartilage of the windpipe between the throat and the chest had been crushed, thus indicating that the woman met a horrible death by strangulation.

The doctors removed and took away with them for further examination the trachea brain and stomach to determine whether the victim could have been subjected to any other form of violence, of which, however, they do not expect to find evidence.

GIVE THEIR JEWELS FOR GREAT WARSHIP

LYNN, Aug. 15.—Lynn women are aroused to such enthusiasm by Cyprus Matsukas, the Greek bard, who is visiting this country to raise money to buy a battleship for Greece, that they gave their rings, jewelry, bracelets and money freely. Over $3,300 was given at a meeting held in Lasters's Hall after Matsukas had made an appeal. A house to house canvas was made to-day and Matsuaks expects to raise $5,000 from the Lynn Greeks.

GOV. HARMON ORDERS OUT MORE TROOPS

COLUMBUS, Aug. 15.—Governor Harmon to-day ordered the First Regiment, Ohio National Guard, of Cincinnati, and Troop B and Battery C of Columbus to report to Adjutant-General Weybrecht for strike duty in connection with the street railway warfare in this city.

ESPERANTISTS OPEN SESSION AT WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Every class and caste of society is represented here at the sixth international Esperanto Congress, which opened here to-day. The four hundred delegates, representing twenty-two countries, range in age from seven to seventy years. All the delegates are prime with speech of peace, the millenium and the brotherhood of man.

A busy week is ahead of the delegates. When the proceedings began to-day there were five-minute talks from the delegates from a number of countries represented. Esperanto was the language used by the French, German, English, Japanese, Russian, Swedish, Italian, Spanish and other delegates. Everybody understood everybody else.

It is rumored, however, that something may take place before the week end to mar what is supposed to be a cut and dried program. There are said to be discontented spirits in the universal language camp.

Trouble in Camp.

What the grievances of these Esperanto insurgents is not outlined, but one who proclaimed himself an insurgent said that the insurgents would declare themselves at the proper time. Opposition to the few who were managing Esperanto in the United States is said to be the cause of the threatened insurrection.

The officials do not seem alarmed and point to the presence of three Washington policemen, who have been coached in Esperanto for the occasion and are attending the sessions to maintain order.

"Resu en paco," the Esperanto for "rest in peace," will, they say, be pronounced by insurgent and regular when the congress concludes.

Dr. Zamenhoff of Warsaw, Poland, founder of the universal language, is dividing honors as the star attraction with Master William McGovern, seven years of age, who hails from California and is a fluent Esperantist.

Preaches in Esperanto.

Church services in Esperanto were scheduled at St. Patrick's Catholic Church and St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Owing to the failure of the Italian priest, who was to have delivered the sermon in Esperanto at St. Patrick's to appear the Esperanto program in that church was abandoned. Objectors in St. Paul's protested to Bishop Harding against the preaching of a sermon in Esperanto citing the twenty-fourth article of religion, which provides that "in Episcopal churches prayers shall not be said in a language not understood by the people."

The bishop, however, considered that the services were for Esperantists and that Esperanto was eminently the language "understood" by the people here.

The sermon was preached by the Rev. James L. Smiley of Annapolis, Md., who took as his text "De La Esperanta Movaldo," dwelling at length on "la religia signifo," the religious significance of Esperanto.

BOND SALE STARTS ACTION IN COURT

Judge Hitchcock of the Superior Court has issued a temporary injunction against Cram, Milliken & Co., restraining them from transferring nine $1,000 bonds of the Arnold Print Works to C. D. Parker & Co. The plaintiff is David B. Mulliken, and he alleges that Percy Lannon, treasurer of the company, without a legal vote of the directors, made the sale to Parker & Co. for $975, a much less sum than their actual market value. The plaintiff alleges that Cram, Milliken & Co., as agents for the United States Cities Railway Company, also hold twenty-eight shares of the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company and two shares of the Great Falls Manufacturing Company.

RACING FRENCH AVIATORS NEAR DEATH IN STORM

AMIENS, France, Aug. 15.—Blown out of their course by a storm and at times narrowly escaping being dashed to death, three of the daring aviators contesting in the 480-mile race for $52,400 arrived here to-day from Douai, approximately fifty miles distant. The passage from Douai was made through a severe gale, but despite this the leaders made good time. Leaving Douai at 5:10 a. m., Leblanc arrived here at 6:20, Aubrun at 7 and Legagneux at 7:15.

They set off from Douai together on the fifth lap, but the wind and the danger of collision compelled them to follow widely separated paths. With but one lap to cover—that from Amiens to Paris, almost seventy miles—the elapsed time of the two leaders to-day when they landed here was: Leblanc, 10 hours 12 minutes 20 seconds; Aubrun, 11 hours 52 minutes 45 seconds.

Barring accident Leblanc will win the race.

FREIGHT TRAIN IS DERAILED AT GROTON

GROTON, Ct., Aug. 15.—An open switch caused the derailment of cars of a freight train on the New York, New Haven & Hartford road here to-day. The train crew escaped injury.

SMALL DEALS RECORDED IN REAL ESTATE

The looked-for lull in the real estate market before Labor Day is in evidence with the sales.

Many small deals are recorded. At the West End the five-story brick dwelling, No. 9 Allen street, near Cambridge street, has been sold to Samuel Lipofsky, by Joseph Shelevsky and others.

The total valuation of this property is $11,600 with 1123 feet rated at $3,600.

Charles P. Webber and others have transferred to Edward Clayton, who sold to David Galles the three and one-half-story base brick house, No. 28 Staniford street, between Cambridge and Green streets. This has a total valuation of $9,200 and $7,770 upon the 1,800 feet of land.

At the South End the four-story brick house, No. 61 Oak street, corner of No. 119 Tyler street, upon which there is a total valuation of $10,700, has been deeded to John M. Ryan and others by Patrick T. Murphy and wife. The 1,125 feet of land is rated at $3,700.

In Dorchester, No. 39A-39B Bernard, corner of Browning avenue, has exchanged hands, Edward L. Burwell selling to Sirpoui M. Hadjian. The records give a total valuation of $6,000 and $1,000 upon 3,355 feet of land.

The vacant land on Quincy street, corner of Ceylon street, containing 6,870 feet, has been sold to William E. Wight by Stephen and Edward Baker.

BOSTON SWELTERS; SHOWERS TO-NIGHT

Boston to-day sweltered under an atmospheric blanket that made the heat oppressive and people generally uncomfortable. The humidity was high, standing at 84, due to the unsettled condition of the weather. The only thing that bobbed up serenely and coolly was the mercury which indicated 77 degrees at 10 o'clock. Ordinarily, without the humidity, this would mean a delightful day for city life in Greater Boston. However, relief is in sight. Weather Forecaster Smith predicted probable showers late to-night or to-morrow. "It was three degrees cooler to-day than yesterday at the same hour," said the weather man. "To-day is cooler than the same day in previous years. The humidity is greater than yesterday. There will be very little change in the weather from what we have been having. The reports show great cloudiness all over the country, but no rain."

ALL ESCAPE IN B. & M. COLLISION

KEENE, N. H., Aug. 15.—No one was injured in the head-on collision which took place on the Boston & Maine between this place and East Westmoreland when the west-bound newspaper train, No. 555, ran into the east-bound passenger train, No. 520. Both locomotives, the tenders and several cars were damaged, while engineers and firemen had close calls. The east-bound train of five cars was three hours late and on the main track waiting to proceed as soon as the paper train went on the siding. It was struck by the latter when it was making nearly twenty miles an hour.

UNIONS TO CONSOLIDATE.

An amalgamation of trade unions in the Sanitary and Street Cleaning Department of the city is under consideration, and calls to-day are out for a special meeting of the locals at Wells Memorial Building Friday night.

TO-DAY'S CABLE NEWS

Up to Midnight, London Time

Abruzzi Would Give Up His Title to Wed.

LONDON—The Central News at Rome says the King and Queen never objected to the marriage of the Duke of the Abruzzi and Miss Katherine Elkins; that the opposition was from Queen Margherita and the Duke of Aosta. Abruzzi now intends asking them if they are still opposed. If the reply is favorable the Duke will marry Miss Elkins and make her a Princess Royal. Should the reply be unfavorable the Duke, it is stated, will renounce his titles and will marry Miss Elkins in America.

Russian Princess Accused.

ST. PETERSBURG—One of the most beautiful women in St. Petersburg, Princess Lobanoff-Rostovskaja, is accused of owing the Red Cross Society $500,000. She has not been haled into court because of her husband's great wealth and social position, but the Czarina has barred her from court, where she was not only the reigning beauty, but was the wittiest and brightest of the ladies there. The Princess insists that she is the innocent victim of a court clique.

Czar to Liberate Prisoners.

ST. PETERSBURG—Amnesty by the Czar on very wide lines is expected in token of the three hundredth anniversary of the rule of the Romanoffs in 1913. This is the confident announcement of the leading Liberal newspapers, and it is generally credited in political circles. This authority says that not only will many political offenders be set free at that time, but their rights of citizenship will be restored.

Filipinos Demand Independence.

MANILA—The visit of Secretary of War Dickinson to Lucena was made the occasion of a demonstration in favor of immediate independence for the Philippines. Replying to a petition, the Secretary told the Filipinos that they had been misinformed as to he extent of his powers in matters of that nature. He said Congress was the only place the subject could be properly discussed.

Balloon Trip Across Alps.

TURIN—Captain Spalterini, accompanied by Lewis Rouhschile and Dr. Etthafen, has made the trip in his balloon Sirie across the Alps, flying from Zurich to the Valley of Lanzo. The aeronauts reached an altitude of thirteen thousand feet.

32 Killed in French Wreck.

ROYAN, France—An excursion train from Bordeaux, with twelve hundred passengers and running at a speed of fifty miles an hour, crashed into a freight train at Saujon. Thirty-two persons were killed and one hundred injured.

French Invade German Air.

DOUAI, France—Outcry is being made by the German newspapers because a French aviator on Thursday last accidentally crossed the frontier, some of the papers suggesting that he ought to have been shot.

Fallieres Visiting Switzerland.

PARIS—President Fallieres has gone to pay an official visit to Switzerland. He is the first chief magistrate of any nation to pay that honor to the little Alpine republic in many years.

King Loses an Equerry.

LONDON—Lieutenant-Colonel the Right Hon. Sir Fleetwood Isham Edwards, Sergeant-at-Arms in the House of Lords and Extra Equerry to the King since 1901, is dead at sixty-eight.

German Warships for Turkey.

WILHELMSHAFEN, Germany—The old German battleships Weissenburg and Kurfurst Friedrich Wilhelm have been delivered to the Turkish navy and departed for Constantinople.

British Cruiser Uninjured.

PORTSMOUTH—The British armored cruiser Duke of Edinburgh, which went ashore off Cowes, has been refloated. The cruiser is not damaged.

The Earl of Amherst Dead.

LONDON—William Archer Amherst, third Earl of Amherst, is dead. He was born in 1836.

Mrs. Adamowski at Carlsbad.

GREAT CROWDS AT HOLY DAY SERVICES

The feast of the Assumption was celebrated to-day in the Catholic churches of Boston. For the convenience of those who were obliged to go to work early the first mass was said at 5 o'clock. Others followed at 7, 8, 8:30, 9 and 10. All the services were attended by large congregations. At the Cathedral high mass was said at 9 o'clock by the Rev. Dr. Crane. At 10 o'clock high mass was said at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, of which Rev. F. P. Powers, S. J., was the celebrant. There will be evening devotions in all the Catholic churches.

THE BRITISH MOTOR BOATS ARRIVE HERE

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Three of Great Britain's fastest motor boats reached here to-day aboard the Atlantic transport liner Minnetonka for the Larchmont races in the contest for the Harmsworth international trophy on August 20. The boats are the Maple Leaf II., the Pioneer and the Zingarella. The Maple Leaf II., belonging to E. Edgar, is said to have a speed of over thirty-seven miles an hour and is considered the most formidable of the British entries.

2 RESCUED FROM BURNING LAUNCH

LYNN, Aug. 15.—The thirty-foot naphtha launch Marie Louise was burned about a half mile off Bass Point, and her two occupants, escaping in the tender, were picked up by another launch and taken to Boston. The launch broke in two and sank.

BARTENDERS TO PARADE.

Fifteen hundred union bartenders to-day stand pledged as individuals to march with Bartenders' Union No. 77 in the coming Labor Day parade. The bartenders will have two bands, and the paraders will have red sunshades, white coats and blue caps.

"TALK" PERIL OF DEMOCRATS, WARNS RILEY

Representative Thomas P. Riley of Malden, says that the men who are toying with the Democratic nomination for Governor are doing more to kill the party's chance for victory this Fall than even the opposing Republicans.

"We hear a lot about 'the Democratic situation' ", says the Malden man. "As a matter of fact, there is no Democratic situation. At least, what there is of it is up in the air. The trouble is that there are too many rumors and too few facts. We are told in whispers that this man and that man and the other man wants to run for Governor. It is up to these men whose names are being used, whether the use is with or without their consent, to come out in the limelight and say either 'I want it' or 'I wouldn't have it'. As soon as it is known who wants the nomination and who doesn't, you can depend on rank and file in the Democratic party to settle the thing. There would be no danger of a convention fight. Everybody in the State would know in three days whom the voters want.

Whole State Wants to Know.

"See that batch of letters?" he said, inquiringly. "They come from all parts of the state. If you read them, you'll find that almost every community has an opinion of its own about who the candidate for governor should be, that no one knows just who is in the race, and, as a result, that everything is topsy-turvy.

"Just listen to this one: 'My dear Mr. Riley: Can you tell me positively whether or not Eugene N. Foss will run for governor? The sentiment for him is strong here. If Mr. Foss intends to run, we'd like to know,' ets., etc.

"Here's another. 'Dear Mr. Riley: John R Thayer is the man favored for governor by the leading Democrats here. Vahey would be a strong second choice. What is Mr. Thayer's position,' etc., etc.

"And listen to this. It's from a chap who served in the House with me, 'Dear Tom: Of course you know I am for Vahey if he wants the nomination. The sentiment is strong for him here. Is there any truth in the report that he intends to withdraw in favor of Hamlin. The Hamlin sentiment is not strong here, and in case Vahey withdraws the leaders here would like to know what other candidates would be in the field.'

Democrats Talking; That's All.

"You'll find letters like those all through that pile. Every one of them adds to the belief in my mind that the Democratic party is facing a serious complication, and that if something isn't done to unravel the mixup our chance for victory will be lessened.

"The Republicans have been hard at work for months. They know who will hold the big places on their State ticket. And they're making strides. No use denying that. They are not in nearly so deep a rut as they were a few months ago.

"And what are the Democrats doing? Just talking; that's all. And talking in whispers, at that. The air is surcharged with rumors. Nobody is shouting very hard for anybody in particular, but almost everybody is whispering that this man or that man or the other man is the one who is going to get the nomination for Governor, that everything is fixed to put the deal through harmoniously, and so on and so forth.

Too Many Wise Ones.

"There's too much of this 'You-wait-and-see-if-what-I-tell-you-isn't-right' business. One great fault lies in the fact that the men who are supposed to be their party leaders are the chief whisperers. Many of them are handing out what they call 'inside dope,' and there is danger that the people may suspect that these leaders are fixing things up and disregarding what the people may want to have done.

"The crying shame of it all is that the muddle is so easy to clear that it is party murder not to clear things. The trouble lies right in our own ranks. The Republicans are not doing nearly so much to kill our party's chances for success next Fall as are the men who are toying with the Democratic nomination for Governor.

"Toying with it. That's what they're doing. They allow themselves to be touted for Governor, and in some instances, I have no doubt, inspire the use of their names because the advertising is pleasing to their personal pride. They have no intention of running.

"Name the men who are mentioned as candidates? Well, you know who they are, and so do I, and so does everybody else. Mr. Vahey, of course, is mentioned, and Mr. Vahey is thoughtful enough of his party's welfare to come out and say he wants the nomination. If nobody else wants the nomination let's know it. If somebody else wants it let him come out and say so. The people will do the rest. You can't fool the people with rumors and expect them to trust you. They want facts. The trouble thus far has been that we have had too many rumors and too few facts."

RUSSIA TRIES TO GET WEZOSOL BACK AS "RED"

The Russian Government is taking active steps to-day to secure the deportation to France, and thence to Russia, of Julius Wezosol, now held in Charles Street Jail on a charge of larceny of $250,000 from the imperial government of the Czar.

Russia, fearing lest the larceny charge against Wezosol may fall through for lack of direct evidence, will try to secure his deportation as a "Red," or Anarchist.

The fact that Baron Rosen, the Russian Ambassador, now summering at Manchester-by-the-Sea, was called into the case to-day shows the fierce eagerness with which Russia is prosecuting the case from every angle.

The secret service men say they found anarchistic literature of every description in Wezosol's place at Squantum and in the little office he had at Egleston Square. On the strength of these papers the case will be put to Immigration Commissioner George B. Billings of the port of Boston, when Mr. Billings returns from his vacation to-morrow.

After the Commissioner has received the evidence of Wezosol's alleged anarchism the matter will be passed upon by the Secretary of State. If it is established that Wezosol is a "Red," he may be deported to the original port from which he shipped to the United States. Wezosol came here from Havre, France, about a year ago.

It is well understood that, under the present very friendly relations between Russia and France, if Wezosol is ever sent back to Havre he will be delivered into Russia's grasp without delay.

Wezosol has claimed that the Russian rouble notes he cashed in Boston were sent to him. He denies the larceny story. Secret service men to-day found that Wezosol recently received two registered letters from Germany. The German postal authorities were cabled to-day to ascertain the people who sent these letters. The fact that Wezosol has received money from abroad tends to weaken the larceny charge. Hence the shift by the Russian authorities to the anarchist charge.

To-day, Russian Consul-General Schlippenback of New York and former Congressman Conry, Russian Vice-Consul at this port, hurried to Manchester-by-the-Sea, where they conferred with Baron Rosen, the Russian Ambassador. They hastened to Newport on some mysterious end of the case there.

Meanwhile Chief Wilkie of the United States secret service and Mark Sullivan, Assistant United States District Attorney in Boston, had a talk to-day. At the same time Attorney Joseph Michaelman, counsel for Wezosol, went to the Charles Street Jail to see his client.

Four governments, Russia, the United States, France and Germany, are involved in this case, which gives it a wholesale international flavor.

The fight will centre now on the efforts of the Russian Government that Wezosol is an Anarchist and subject to deportation within the meaning of the statutes and international treaty.

NEW INQUEST IS ORDERED IN CRIPPEN CASE

LONDON, Aug. 15.—An entirely new inquest will be necessary over the remains believed to be those of Belle Elmore, for whose murder Dr. H. H. Crippen and Ethel Clare LeNeve are under arrest in Quebec, it was announced to-day by Coronor Schroeder Williamson, when the first inquest was resumed. The recent death of Coronor Danforth Thomas necessitates the retracing of all ground.

A great crowd was gathered at Islington to-day for the resumption of the inquest which was put over on July 18, after meagre testimony had been given.

The fact that there was to be a new inquest caused surprise among all save the officers. It was not believed that Coroner Thomas's death would make a complete hearing necessary. This probably will cause delay in the trial.

Point for Prosecution.

Almost without exception the witnesses of July 18 were present, together with many others.

This further delay gives the authorities a strong advantage in that it postpones the time when the disclosure of the prosecution's case will be necessary. Just what Professor Pepper, the home officer analyist, has discovered in regard to the mutilated remains found in the Crippen home basement, has not been officially announced. It was expected that this feature could be cleared up to-day.

It was declared probable by the officials that no definite attempt to continue the inquest to the crucial point involving Pepper's testimony would be made until Crippen has again reached London.

A point in the testimony to-day of Melinda May, secretary of the London Music Hall Artists' Guild, was made when the witness said that about Christmas, more than a month before her disappearance, Belle Elmore complained of a straining sensation. "I feel as if I were going to die," she said.

On February 2 Ethel LeNeve went to the guild rooms with a passbook, a checkbook and a letter in Crippen's handwriting, asking Miss May to see to the election of another honorary lecturer, as Mrs. Crippen was away for a few months.

Give Papers to Premier.

Canadian advices say the final measures in preparation for the return to London of Dr. Crippen were begun to-day when Detective Sergeant Mitchell of Scotland Yard turned over to Sir Lomer Douin, Provincial Premier of Quebec and Attorney-General, the documents supplied by the British police to corroborate their claim for Crippen and the girl.

CONVENTION PLANS COMING NEXT WEEK

Members of the Democratic and Republican State Committees will get together. —separately, —next week to arrange for their state conventions. Selecting a presiding officer and a committee on resolutions is about all that the Republicans have before them. Their convention has been set for October 8, in Tremont Temple. Former Governor John L. Bates, Speaker Walker, Senate President Treadway and Former Representative Robert Luce of Somerville are mentioned for chairman.

Plans for the Democratic convention are still in the making. No convention date or place has been set. This selection of Faneuil Hall for some date late in September or early in Ocober is expected. The Democratic committee meeting will be held on Monday or Tuesday. The Republicans plan to hold treir meeting on Wesnesday of next week.

BOSTON WOMAN POSED FIVE YEARS AS A MAN AND CAPTURED WAGER

As a result of a bet made five years ago in a Boston club, Mrs. Elena B. Smith of New York, who was attending a Boston business college at that time, has been successfully masquerading ever since as a man in Boston and New York.

As a man she passed without suspicion as Albert C. Martinez of Argentina, known to hundreds of New Yorkers with whom she (or he) mingled in business, in pleasure and in all the ordinary life occupations and diversions of an average New Yorker.

This experiment in changing a young woman to a young man was begun in Boston and was continued in New York with such complete success that it will scarcely be credited by the friends of the supposed Albert C. Martinez.

Helped by Knowledge of Spanish.

Mrs. Elena B. Smith, to use her right name, is the daughter of a New York family. She was married young. She went to South America. There she learned Spanish well. This aided her in her masquerade as Martinez of Argentina. In fact, her complete knowledge of Spanish and of the South American types caused her to adopt the name and personality of a young gentleman from Argentino when she started out to pose as a man.

In July, 1905, Mrs. Smith was attending a Boston business college. One of her chums there was Miss Edna Torgersen. Mrs. Smith was thoroughly feminine and, up to this time, never thought of posing as a man.

The month before that a group of Boston men were talking in a Boston club of the Murray Hall case in New York in which an employment agent of many years standing turned out in the end to be a woman. A Boston physician made a large wager that such was not a too difficult task. His bet was taken up. Having gotten himself in thus far the physician sought some instrument to win his wager for him. He had bet a considerable sum that a woman could pass one year as a man without detection.

Another Masquerade as "Wife."

This physician knew Mrs. Smith. He offered her $2,500 to win his bet for him. Mrs. Smith, aghast at first, yielded to persuasion. She stipulated that Miss Edna Torgersen was to pass as her "wife," thus aiding the deception and giving the supposed man constant company.

The two girls were acquainted with Howard Canfield, the nineteen-year-old son of a Mrs. Canfield on Columbus avenue, between Dartmouth and West Newton streets. Young Canfield had been on the stage and knew the art of "makeup" and disguise. He assisted Mrs. Smith in the transformation to manhood.

Suitable clothing was secured at the big department stores. Mrs. Smith's hair was cut. She dressed for the role, and one July evening in 1905 started out with Miss Torgersen, her supposed wife, for a stroll over to Boston Common and back. The deception was successful from the start. If anyone noticed Mrs. Smith it was only to note that there was a decidedly good-looking young man of the Latin type.

"Dear Mr. Martinez."

On July 8, 1905, the two girls went to New York. They were to live as "Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Martinez from Argentina." They did so for five years and were never once suspected.

The supposed Martinez worked as bookkeeper, as Spanish correspondent, as salesman, as real estate reporter and in other places open to a young man with good education, business training and special knowledge of Spanish and South American trade.

The best joke was her married relation to her supposed wife. Mr. Martinez, though he went around town with the boys and was a thorough good fellow, was never suspected by any of being aught than the tenderest, truest husband a young wife ever had. Other wives held up "that dear Mr. Martinez" to their own husbands as a model.

"I suppose," Mrs. Smith now says, "that the other husbands sometimes hated me cordially for being thrown in their faces so."

Mrs. Smith has just given up her man's disguise and life and has organized the Spanish American Publicity Company at No. 31 Liberty street. And Miss Torgersen, her supposed wife, is now in position to accept a real, bona fide husband.

GIRL DIVES OFF BOSTON BRIDGE

A dive of sixty feet from the middle span of the new West Boston birdge was made to-day at 11 o'clock by La Diva Venus, whose real name is Miss Elsie Holstrum of Cambridge, and although she dived headforemost the whole distance, she entered the water as cleanly as a knife and rose a moment afterward uninjured.

Miss Holstrum has been a pupil at Dr. Sargent's School of Physical Culture in Cambridge for some time past, and it was under the direction of Professor J. Harry of that school, an expert in swimming that she made her perilous plunge. A detail of police and launches had been stationed on the water to aid her, should assistance be needed, but she rose from beneath the water wreathed in smiles at her beautiful exhibition and handily climbed into the boat waiting for her. No announcement had been made of her expected plunge, but a large crowd soon gathered on the bridge when the object of her visit was learned.

She was attended by J. O. Jackson and L. Davis of the Paragon Park Company as well as by her instructor, Professor Harry.

HELD ON CHARGE OF STEALING SHOES

George Morse, giving his home as No. 4 George street, Charlestown, was to-day held in $1,000 for the Grand Jury in the Charlestown Court on a charge of breaking and entering and larceny from the store of Remick Brothers, No. 508 Main street. Reserve Officer John A. O'Donnell met Morse early to-day with a suspicious looking bundle under his arm. The bundle contained seven pairs of shoes. Investigation showed that the shoes had been stolen from Remick Brothers' store. The thief had made a hole about two feet square in the wall of the wooden building. The police found that the wheelwright shop of Frank A. Teeling at No. 5 Mishawum street had been entered and the following implements stolen: Two saws, two wrenches, a pair of pliers, a brace, nine bits and a four-foot crowbar. They think that with these tools Morse made the hole in the wall. Morse has served two terms in State Prison, the police say.

VIOLATERS OF MILK LAWS ARE FINED

Three men were arraigned before Judge Fallon in the South Boston District Court to-day for violations of the milk laws. Albert Frey, who has a grocery store at No. 117 D street, was fined $15 for selling milk below the standard. Edward E. Bencks of No. 167 M street failed to appear. Charles Monthewicz of No. 26 Second street, was fined $10 for selling milk without a license.

IMPORTED JERSEYS SUPPLY WHOLE SHIP

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Everybody on board the Atlantic transport Minnetonka, which reached port to-day, had all the fresh, creamy milk they could drink on the voyage over from London, through the courtesy of eighty Jersey cows. They were imported to the country by a large dairy and dispensed milk en route.

ESCAPE FIRE JUST IN TIME

LYNN, Aug. 15.—But for the timely discovery of a fire in the two-story tenement house at No. 10 Grover street early to-day several persons might have been burned to death.

The fire began in the kitchen on the second floor, which is occupied by Miss Emma Murphy, her three sisters and four brothers. The lower floor is occupied by Mrs. Napoleon Parent and her four children.

The crackling of the flames awoke Miss Murphy, who aroused all the occupants of the house and hurried them out into the street. Her brother, Eugene H. Murphy, sent in an alarm. Quick work on the part of the fire department prevented great damage.

L CONDUCTORS HURT IN FALLS OFF CARS

Two Boston Elevated conductors are today in hospitals suffering from injuries received by falling off their cars. William C. Long, twenty-six, of No. 88 Mount Auburn street, Cambridge, is on the dangerous list at the Cambridge Hospital. While collecting fares at Broadway and Ware street, Cambridge, he fell from the car. His skull was fractured. P. J. Rooney of No. 14 York street, Dorchester, suffered injuries to his forehead which rendered him unconscious for an hour by falling off a car at Washington and Algonquin streets. He was taken to the Massachusetts General Hospital.

MAN WHO CONVERTED GEN. BOOTH IS DEAD

HARTFORD, Ct., Aug. 15.—The Rev. Edward Payson Hammond, for many years a well-known evangelist in this country and Great Britain, is dead at his home here of infirmities due to old age.

The Rev. Mr. Hammond had an eventful career, the most notable of his conversions being that of General Booth, the father of the Salvation Army. He was born in Ellington, this State, in 1831, and continued his evangelical work until a few years ago, when on account of failing health he was obliged to retire.

PAULHAN AND WHITE BOTH CLAIM $5,000

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Both Paulhan and Graham White to-day claim the $5,000 offered for the greatest total distance flown across country in France or Great Britain in twelve months just ended.

Paulhan claims to have covered 780 miles, while White, who is credited with 759, claims to have done 842 miles, so the matter will have to be adjudicated by the Aero Club officials.

BRICKLAYERS TO MEET.

Bricklayers' Union No. 3 takes a final vote to-night on the question of parading Labor Day, in addition to holding its annual field day celebration at the Locust street grounds. Michael A. Murphy and William H. O'Brien, president and vice-president respectively of the Central Labor Union, will address the meeting.

GAYNOR PAST DANGER POINT, SURGEONS SAY

HOBOKEN, N. J., Aug. 15.—The following statement regarding the condition of Mayor Gaynor was issued from St. Mary's Hospital at 11 a. m.:

The condition of the Mayor is extremely gratifying. His pulse and temperature are nearly normal. He will be in the hospital about two weeks longer. While there is always a possibility of infection from a wound up to the seventh day, the danger of tetanus in this case has been provided for.

The watchers at the bedside of Mayor Gaynor of New York city breathed easy today with the passing of the sixth day crisis.

"No indications of blood poisoning have developed; the recovery of the patient is now practically assured," was the word given out by the attendants at St. Mary's Hospital, where the Mayor has been since he was shot down last Tuesday by James J. Gallagher.

Two periods of danger from blood poisoning have now been safely passed—that ending with the forty-eighth hour after the shooting and to-day's.

Mr. Gaynor awoke refreshed. His appetite was good and almost his first words were a request for breakfast. He was given coffee and eggs and later wine jelly and cream.

"I feel fit as a fiddle," he said to Dr. William J. Arlitz and Dr. Charles N. Dowd. He jokingly continued: "I helped myself more than you medical fellows. I find how to cure my own cough."

The Mayor discovered for himself that by lying in a certain posture he could rid himself of the irritating cough that has bothered him for several days. He displayed greater interest in outside affairs than he has previously, and expressed a wish that he might see all his callers.

YACHTSMAN DROWNS IN FALL OFF CRAFT

QUINCY, 'Aug. 15.—Search is being made to-day for the body of Guy C. Scott, who fell from his yacht Ariel, in which he had taken his brother, John, and some friends for a trip about Quincy Bay. Because he was known to be an expert swimmer none attempted to assist him until he had disappeared for the last time. Scott was thirty years old and lived at No. 72 Grampian way, Dorchester. Scott was standing near the jib sheet and as the yacht went about he was seen to trip and fall overboard. The incident created only amusement, for John Scott declared his brother was an expert swimmer and no alarm was felt. Scott struggled in the water, the party thinking he was doing it for fun. When he had gone down three times, the yacht's tender was shoved out to him, but he did not again come to the surface.

PLEDGE $61,000 IN HALF AN HOUR

OLD ORCHARD, Me., Aug. 15.—Pledges of $61,500 were made to Rev. A. B. Simpson of New York within thirty minutes for the Christian and Missionary Alliance. After talking for an hour in his annual missionary sermon this year on the evangelization of the world, the collection of the pledge cards which had been passed around was begun.

PROF. LOWELL SEES METCALF'S COMET

FLAGSTAFF, Ari., Aug. 15.—The new comet discovered by Metcalf on Aug. 9 was observed here by Professor Lowell, of Lowell observatory. Professor Lowell says the comet is a conspicuous object. In the 24-inch finder is showed a well-marked nucleus and a parabolic head, which will eventually form a tail.

PROTEST CITY WORK.

Because of an alleged discrimination against organized labor in giving municipal boat work to a water front firm that employs non-union machinists and blacksmiths exclusively, the Territorial Council of Blacksmiths' Unions, including the organizations of Boston, Brockton and Quincy, to-day sent an official protest to Mayor Fitzgerald. Like action previously had been taken by Machinists' Union No. 264.

MRS. CHARLTON NOW NAMED IN WOODILL CASE

BALTIMORE, Aug. 15.—Rumors have been frequently heard in the last few months in St. Michaels and other towns in Talbot county to the effect that Mrs. Edith May Thompson Woodill, the young woman whose murder near that town a year ago was fraught with such country-wide interest and thrilling details, was not the victim of "Lame Bob" Eastman, the man of mystery, as was supposed, but of Mrs. Mary Scott Castle Charlton, who was murdered by her husband, Porter Charlton, on June 6 last at Lake Como, Italy.

If these rumors be true, two of the most startling murders that have ever engaged the interest of the American people will be linked together in doubly tragic bonds. The truth of these reports can only be known from the lips of one or more of those who were present on that night of June, when Mrs. Woodill, vivacious and much sought after, came to her death in Robert T. Eastman's bungalow on Broad Creek.

Charlton Is Silent.

Two of those whose names have been mentioned as being connected with the affair are dead, namely, the murdered woman and Eastman, the suicide. Young Charlton is in a murderer's cell in a Jersey City jail, but refuses to be seen by any one except the members of his family and his lawyers.

The main point that must enter into a consideration of the case is whether Mrs. Charlton, who was then Mrs. Castle, was present in the bungalow on the night when it is alleged, according to a letter written by Eastman shortly before his death, a quarrel arose between two women through jealousy about a man, in which quarrel one of the women struck her rival over the head with a bottle, causing injuries from which she died an hour later.

Seek Identity of Men.

Two men besides Eastman were present on the night in question, so the latter said. If this be true, the identity of these men would be important. Easman's name has borne the stain of guilt, but there are those who belive the avowal of innocence made by him before he took his life and who maintain that it was not he, but a woman, who killed Mrs. Woodill.

HELD WOMAN'S PHOTO AS HE TOOK POISON

HAVERHILL, Aug. 15.—With a photograph of a well-known Haverhill woman clasped in his hand, Silas W. Carpenter, who came to this city less than a week ago, was found in his room dead by his own hand. He had taken a quantity of prussic acid to end his life. Carpenter was thirty-two years of age and when he hired a room at No. 148 Merrimac street he gave his name to the landlady as Samuel Thompson. He made no secret of his real name to the friends that he made around town, however, and so was quickly identified. His home was in West Burke, Vt., and his mother was notified of his death.

LONDON ACTRESS TO WED A TITLE

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Still another actress is about to enter the ranks of the British peerage. All the difficulties have been removed that stood in the way of the betrothal of the Hon. Oliver Brett, the elder son and heir of Viscount Esher, and Zena Dare, a widely known and exceedingly popular stage beauty and musical comedy star. The engagement will be announced soon. Zena Dare and her sister Phyllis were for a long time the most photographed actresses in London.

BOY DROWNS AT PLAY.

GLOUCESTER, Aug. 15.—Thomas Nelson, the eight-year-old son of Clifford Nelson, was drowned at Rice's wharf. He had been seen playing in a dory, and when he failed to come home to supper his father went to the wharf and found the lifeless body floating in the water.

WORLD'S FAIR TO CONTINUE IN SPITE OF FIRE

BRUSSELS, Aug. 15.—While many art treasures were rescued from the flames that destroyed the Belgian exposition, a number of priceless treasures was consumed in the disastrous fire, the total loss running into the millions.

Two bodies have been recovered from the ruins.

It was announced to-day that the exposition would continue open with the few buildings remaining, efforts being made to repair such as were not entirely destroyed.

Wild Animals at Large.

Some of the wild animals that escaped from the menagerie were to-day still at large. Others had been captured, and some had been shot down in junglelike hunts in the outer districts of terrorized Brussels.

Sparks carried by a high wind not only spread the flames within the fair grounds, but carried them beyond the residential district in the vicinity, and three-score homes were destroyed.

Practically everything in the American, Danish, Russian, Norwegian, Austrian, Japanese, Turkish and Swedish sections was saved. Only the facades of the Italian and Spanish sections and about one-third of the entire French section, the latter containing a valuable art collection, were burned.

Fortunately the most valuable art treasures, which had been loaned to the exposition or acquired by it, including 8,00 valuable Gobelin tapestries, a large exhibition of jewelry, many paintings, marbles and ancient furniture, were successfully removed by the police, firemen and exposition employes beyond the reach of the flames and the pillaging criminals, who attempted to take advantage of the disaster.

The reproduction of the house of Rubens at Antwerp, the official pavilion of the city of Antwerp, containing masterpieces of Flemish art of the Rubens period, collected from the galleries of the world, was not even scorched by flames.

In the Belgian and British sections the flames spread with such extraordinary rapidity that nothing was saved except the plan of the coming international exposition at Turin, Italy, in 1911.

$500,000 Collection Gone.

Much that was in the English building can never be replaced. The $500,000 collection of historic furniture secured from the famous collections elsewhere was destroyed. Every period of English history was recorded in this exhibition. Highly prized china also went, as well as reproductions of the gold and silver plate from the Kensington Museum. Two large Morlaix tapestries were destroyed.

There were besides art exhibitions from Germany, Italy, Spain and other countries and a collection of armor loaned by King Alfonso.

FIREMAN RUN OVER BY HOSE WAGON

In trying to leap onto the hose wagon of Engine 2 of Everett, to-day, Harry J. Neal, a call man, missed his hold, fell and was run over by one of the rear wheels of the wagon. The wheel passed over the middle of his body. Neal was picked up unconscious. The hose wagon was responding to an alarm from Box 56. Neal was taken to the Whitten Hospital in Everett.

CHILDREN ENJOY OUTING ON ISLAND

About 350 children cheered and sang their way down to Bumkin Island to-day, aboard the steamer Monitor. They were on one of the Randidge Fund excursions, and the fifteen men and women in charge were kept busy watching out for their welfare. In the party were about 100 children from the Syrian Baptist Church, South End, an equal number from St. John's Episcopal Church, East Boston.

BOSTON GIRL WHO STARTED THE NEW WALKING STICK FAD

Miss Rosamond Dixey.

JEWELED CANES A SOCIETY FAD

The swagger walking stick introduced by Miss Rosamond Dixey, the dashing Boston society girl., is the latest fad adopted by the smart set, and from all appearances is bound to be quite popular this Fall.

Walking is rapidly becoming a favorite pastime at fashionable Lenox, and any number of the matrons of the younger society set may be seen on their daily "hikes," accompanied by their bejewelled canes.

It remained for Miss Dixey to spring the new fad, which was quickly adopted by the other members of the smart set, and now it is declared to be quite the proper thing

Miss Dixey was first seen with a dainty bamboo stick, in the slight curved handle of which shone diamonds and emeralds. The following morning she vigorously swung a dark, polished thornwood with a handle arabesqued with turquoises.

THIEVES LOOT CHURCH.

Thieves broke intp the Church of St. Anthony of Padua on Revere street, Revere, and stole a valuable watch which was on a table near the altar. Considerable glass and other fixtures were destroyed by the vandals.

TAFT TO LEARN G. O. P. CRISIS FROM CRANE

BEVERLY, Aug. 15.—The first crisis in Republican party reorganization is due this week. Senator W. Murray Crane, who visited Secretary Ballinger in advance of the positive reports that the latter will resign early in September, and whose call on Senator Aldrich was followed by the issue of the Rhode Island Senator's rubber defense, will visit the President to-morrow.

Immediately behind Senator Crane will come, on Wednesday, Vice-President Sherman and H. C. Loudenslager, who are perhaps the closest friends and advisers of Speaker Cannon, unless Representative McKinley of Illinois may claim to being closer, and he, too, will be there before the week is out.

The meeting between the President and Senator Crane will be the first since Mr. Crane made his mysterious trip West. Up to now the impression has been conveyed here that the President had no knowledge of any plan to force Secretary Ballinger out for the good of the party; and it has also been broadly asserted that Mr. Taft was ignorant of the design to extract a statement from Senator Aldrich or to drive Speaker Cannon to the political tall timber that has been carefully conserved for defunct leaders.

The President, of course, has been reading the newspapers, and it is known that his mail has measurably increased since publication was given to the plans of the new leadership. So far, however, Mr. Taft has declined, as has Secretary Norton, to make any comment on the stories. With the coming of Senator Crane, however, it will be impossible to keep the [illegible] news from the President any [illegible]. The Senator is expected to make a full report to Mr. Taft, not only on the result of his conferences with Ballinger and Aldrich, but as well of the state of affairs which he finds to exist in the country west of the Alleghany Mountains.

VIENNA EDUCATOR COMING TO HARVARD

VIENNA, Austria, Aug. 15.—Professor Joseph Redlich of the University of Vienna, famous as the author of standard books on English constitutional law and one of the leaders in the Austrian Diet, will go to the United States in September to deliver a course of lectures before the students of Harvard.

"I am looking forward with great interest to my American tour," said he, "for it will be my first visit to the new world. The subject of my four lectures will be 'Austria-Hungary as an Empire.'

"Before I go to Cambridge I shall pay my respects to President Taft and then take a hurried trip to the chief cities in the East, and hope to get as far West as Chicago."

SEES FIFTY WHALES OFF MAINE COAST

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 15.—Captain Lewis of the packet Mary E. Smith reported that when off Boon Island he ran into a school of whales and sighted at least fifty. Three big ones got so close to the schooner that he had a boat all ready in case they proved troublesome. He thinks that a whaler would do well now off the coast.

ROCKEFELLER AND MORGAN BUY PAPER

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—The McCormick holdings of 47 per cent. of the stock of the Chicago Tribune are reported to have been sold for $6,500,000 to J. P. Morgan and John D. Rockefeller. According to the report, which is believed in newspaper circles to be true, Mr. Morgan some time ago offered $5,250,000 for the McCormick interest, later raising his bid to $6,500,000.

LATEST STYLES FOR MEN UPSET HIS WARDROBE

These be days of anguish for the fastidious residents of Brookline and other centers of sartorial style who have just laid in a stock of new clothes, for the exhibitors at the annual Fashion Show, now running in Chicago, have agreed that what was correct only a week ago is not now correct, and that all of the old stuff will have to be tossed overboard.

But the visitors at the Chicago exhibition apparently have been well repaid for the disheartening news, for a pretty young woman stands before them daily in a suit of flaming red pajamas and tells that these, or rather similar ones, must be worn in the future, showing, ladies and gentlemen, that it is impossible to escape the dictates of style, even by fleeing to one's bedroom. Also, the things must be of silk.

The Fashion Show people lay particular stress on morning dress, and they lay down an irrevocable law that coats may not be removed, even in the warmest weather. This edict is arousing considerable indignation, and it was said to-day that a delegation of truck drivers will visit the show to-morrow morning to protest.

Threatens a Poem.

Silk hats are also to be worn in the morning, also gloves, also wide scarfs, but no jewelry. "Bath House John" Coughlin declares that this is aimed at him, and threatens to write a poem unless the rules are changed.

Just listen to what the clothes architects say:

To be absolutely in style, the well-dressed man has to do two things. First, bundle up all of his present wearing belongings, open the window and heave them into the alley. Then, from beneath the coverlet of his bed ask the favorite haberdasher to do him over complete.

Those who passed through the exhibits and consulted the clothes men agreed that to be garbed correctly to venture out on the streets in the morning a man must be attired in this way:

Correct Street Garb.

COAT—English walking coat of fancy cheviot; black braid binding.

TROUSERS—Made of the same material.

WAISTCOAT—Of white or colored flannel. There is no possible excuse for leaving off the waistcoat in hot weather.

SHIRT—White, possibly soft; or of fancy madras of a soft tone.

COLLAR—The wing collar is proper with this costume, although the fold collar is much worn.

CRAVAT—Avoid geometric lines. Although the narrow scarfs are much worn, the wider ties with flowing ends are preferable.

GLOVES—It is extremely bad form not to wear gloves, even in warm weather. They may be mocha, gray suede or chamois.

JEWELRY—It is considered bad taste to wear any but the most unobtrusive scarfpin these days—better none at all. The same is true of other jewelry in the morning.

HAT—With the morning coat a silk hat should be worn. A straw, derby or soft hat may be worn, however, without too great a violation of the conventionalities.

SHOES—Oxfords or black calf.

Red Silk Pajamas.

In addition to these facts gleaned at the Show, the strictly proper dresser discovered that he needed other articles of attire that are not generally observed by others. A petite young woman attired in fiery red silk pajamas insisted that the pajamas worn this Fall should be of colored silk. She made the concession of a milder tone than her own, however.

Of course, socks should match the cravat and, better still, the gloves.

The tip of colored handkerchief protruding in the pocket will be seen only on those who follow in the wake of the real fashion leaders.

The Fashion Show holds everything that might please the eyes of the man and entice dollars from his pocket.

FATHER DROWNS IN SIGHT OF CHILDREN

WARREN, R. I., Aug. 15.—While his son and daughter stood on the shore watching, but too far away to lend assistance, Jones Hines, sixty, of Pawtucket, was drowned in Cole's river. He was not an expert swimmer and unthinkingly got beyond his depth. He attempted to swim back, but the exertion was too much. Men who saw him sink ran to the spot and brought him ashore still breathing slightly, but too far gone to be resuscitated.

The circulation of the AMERICAN is 200,000 more than its next highest competitor and 75,000 more than all the other evening papers of Boston combined.

CAMPER DROWNS WHILE SWIMMING

LAWRENCE, Aug. 15.—Allan Cousens, aged nineteen, son of Thomas Cousens of No. 128 Saratoga street, was drowned in the Merrimac River. With his brother and Harry Ryder he had gone camping. He was seen to throw up his hands and sink. The body has not been recovered.

HARD CIDER USED TO SAVE BURNING HOUSE

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt., Aug. 15.—The house of George Seabury, in Langdon, N. H., a suburb of this town, was saved by using thirty-two barrels of hard cider during a fire. The barns were burned, but the stock was saved. Loss $5,000.

SCOUTING IS TRAINING FOR BATTLES BOYS MUST FIGHT IN LIFE

By GEORGE S. BARTON.

A great principle in strategy is to concentrate the action of your forces on the enemy's weakest spot, and not disseminate them into a number of weak, disconnected efforts at different points.

A similar principle obtains in commerce when big combines tackle big concerns, where small individual firms could make no impression.

But in dealing with the vast question of training the rising generation aright for practical good citizenship we have so far lost sight of this principle. We have employed mere spasmodic ventures in place of a great organized combine or concentrated effort.

We have boys' brigades, church clubs, junior branches of the Y. M. C. A., working lads' clubs and many others—all in their own separate ways doing excellent work, but without a definite general plan or cohesion among them.

What is wanted is a common tie and close sympathy between for combinations of effort.

This is one of the aims of the American Boy Scout.

The scheme of boy scouting is applicable to all these organizations, and if adopted by them (and it has already been taken up by several) might form the desired bond between them.

For those who may not as yet be conversant with it we give the following recapitulation of the scheme:

PEACE SCOUTS.

A peace scout is the kind of man we find among the missionaries and explorers in every part of the world; the pioneers and trappers of the West, hunters of Africa, prospectors, drovers and bushmen of Australia, and in the Canadian mounted police, South African constabulary and numerous other police forces.

For peace scouts the following qualities are essential: Woodcraft—that is, ability to live in the open, to cook and kill for themselves, to find their way in unknown countries, to look after their health, to understand the ways of animals and to have general resourcefulness and self-reliance.

The power of observation must be well developed, so that nothing escapes their attention. They must be able to track and to read meaning from footprints and other slightest signs, and read character and feelings in their fellow men.

Loyalty to their duty must guide their actions when away from the immediate direction of their officers and employers.

Chivalry must rule their dealings with other people—that is, a kindly comradeship for all others of their kind and respect and helpfulness to all women, children and helpless people.

Courage and endurance are essential, and the men must at all times be prepared to take their lives in their hands and to fling them away without thinking it too great a sacrifice if duty or circumstances demand it.

These are qualities which a scout must possess, whether it be for peace or for war. But they are also the qualities which make the best citizens in a peaceful community. These can all be acquired under instruction, and they cannot be learned too early in life.

At present there is only too little instruction in these essentials to manliness and character among boys, especially city boys, and this scheme is offered as a small step towards supplying the want.

The object of the American Boy Scout is therefore intended to help in making the rising generation, of whatever class or creed, into good men and into better citizens of the republic.

Easily Taken Up.

Under the attractive name of scouting a novel form of instruction is given in citizenship applicable to any existing organization. Where such organization does not exist a special one can easily be formed.

It is applicable to town or country, and includes games and competitions for the maintenance of continued interest.

Partly indoor, mostly outdoor; adapted to town as well as country; easy, inexpensive and useful; developing character and health (not only in the boys, but in the instructor as well) by instruction in Scoutcraft.

Scoutcraft includes the following subjects and their respective details, which are taught theoretically and also practically by certain tests and games:

1. DISCIPLINE — Self-discipline, obedience to Scout law, self sacrifice and sense of duty, etc.
2. OBSERVATION—Noticing details, tracking, signs, deducing meanings from small signs, judging distances, heights and numbers.
3. WOODCRAFT—Camping, cooking, natural history, resourcefulness, map-reading, finding the way, boating, swimming, carpentering, cycling, marksmanship, astronomy, etc.
4. HEALTH AND ENDURANCE—Physical development, exercises and games, cleanliness, non-smoking, continence, sobriety, food, sanitation, etc.
5. CHIVALRY—Courtesy and helpfulness to women and children, the knights and their code, charity, thrift, honor, courage and cheerfulness.
6. SAVING LIFE—Ambulance work, saving life in cases of fire, gas-fumes, drowning, street accidents, panic, etc. First aid to the injured.
7. PATRIOTISM—History and geography of the United States and its territories, the flag, deeds that won and preserved the Republic, marksmanship, nature of government, etc.

After first instruction in the foregoing details, interest is maintained by games and competition in scoutcraft.

Scouting Handbook.

An inexpensive official manual on scouting contains a progressive course of lessons and practices in the foregoing subjects, such as will enable an instructor, though untrained himself, to teach his boys; or it can be used as self-instructor by an individual boy wishing to teach himself. The book can be obtained from the New England Headquarters for thirty-two cents in stamps.

Scout expenses are small. No apparatus or uniform is absolutely necessary, beyond badges.

Chief items of expense where a boys' organization does not already exist would be hire and lighting of room, stationery, a few books, badges, etc. which could be met with a small subscription from members.

Patrols of nine boys are formed under a senior boy as patrol leader.

Ten patrols form a troop under an officer called a scoutmaster

The scoutmaster would select ten special boys to act as patrol leaders of his troop. These he should put through a course of instruction of about three weeks or a month, with the help of the handbook. If less time is available, it will take a little longer.

After this each patrol leader should form and instruct his patrol of nine scouts along the same lines, under supervision of the scoutmaster, to pass a standard test for the privilege of wearing the badge of a scout.

Similarly, where there are not enough boys to form a troop, a man or boy can form a patrol of nine and instruct them.

After which, further development could be carried on by games and competitions.

Each scoutmaster should have an adjutant, i. e., an officer under him as second in command and general assistant, ready to take his place at any time.

Similarly, in each patrol there should be a corporal trained to help the patrol leader and to act for him when necessary.

The principle of discipline is that each scout is put on his honor to carry out orders whether his officer is present or not.

Any one desirous of doing a good turn at once to his country, to the rising generation, and to himself may do worse than undertake the training of a patrol of Boy Scouts on the above lines.

For fuller details and application blanks apply to the Secretary, George H. Gordon, at the New England Headquarters, No. 5 Bromfield street, Boston.

A good many people seem to have the idea that the object of the Boy Scouts is not to train our boys to be manly, good citizens of the country; self-reliant, unselfish and helpful to others—and to understand woodcraft and outdoor life; no, that is only the sugar coating of the pill.

They imagine that it is a deep laid scheme to foster the military spirit and pave the way ultimately for universal conscription; they have said that they see the cloven hoof of the military alarmist seeking to embroil the nation in a bloody war.

They will admit that fresh air, exercise, obedience, love of country, are all excellent things in themselves—but there are better ways of implanting these virtues in the young idea than by encouraging the military spirit, as it is found in the practice of scoutcraft as taught in the American Boy Scout movement.

Here's an Opportunity.

Well, as there are many better ways of doing the job, it is sincerely hoped that some of these gentlemen will prove their words and start another association, and when they have got it going the scouts will gladly take them on in any practical test that they may name to prove our quality as self-sacrificing, God-fearing, chivalrous men and citizens. And if their lads beat ours we will be glad, and rightly change our methods and adopt theirs.

But meantime, though our "deep, dark secret" has been revealed, we are content to go on with our work as we begun it, with the one object before us of being prepared by development of manliness among us to do our duty to our fellow-men as good citizens.

When an eminent public man wrote that we ought not to teach boys soldiering, because, as he put it, "he hates war like the devil," a military officer connected with the movement said, in reply, that had he actually seen anything of war himself, he would, like most soldiers, hate it worse than the devil. It is for that very reason that military men almost without exception urge upon their fellow-countrymen to be prepared to defend their country should it ever be necessary, but that is that they may keep from our own land the horrors of war brought to our own homes and to our women and children.

A very pleasing letter reached me yesterday from a Worcester woman. Since her son joined the Scouts, she informs me, a great improvement has taken place in his character. He is willing to do all the things she asks of him without the slightest grumble, and is much kinder and more considerate towards his younger brothers and sisters. Where previously he had been untidy he is now scrupulously careful, and every one of his belongings is put in its place instead of being left about until the hand that rocks the cradle removed it.

Make Boys Better.

This is good news. It proves, as do so many other letters that reach me, that scouting for boys is having a wholesome effect on all who are interested in it. Baseball may teach you self-control, you may learn self-reliance from football, but neither of these games will improve your character all round as scouting does. Scouting will make men, morally as well as physically, of all the boys that take it up. There is no rant about the principles of Peace Scouting.

The boy whose mother has written to me is on his honor to obey the Scout rules, and by loyally obeying them he is removing all the undesirable traits from his nature. Previously he was burdened with selfishness, now he does his good turn every day, and whom better could he aid than his mother. It is more manly and noble to assist a hard-worked parent on a bright afternoon than to make three or four hits in a baseball game. It is better to deal gently with people younger than yourself than hurt their feelings with harsh words. It is only right to make as little labor for other persons as possible.

Peace Scouting made the boy realize this and is helping to make a man of him.

The one great difficulty which confronts all organizers of schemes for boys is the want of young men to help as officers. Although there are a good many fine young fellows with grit and patriotism doing something for their country and generation, there are also a very great many who are too much taken up with their own amusements to spare a few hours weekly to helping others.

In most cases they have never thought about it, or it has never been suggested to them that they could be of such great use to their country without cost to themselves, and at the great gain of getting fresh amusement, while obtaining character for themselves and future welfare for a number of their younger brothers.

Older men are always apt to decry the younger generation and to say that the country is going to the dogs, and so on. And really, unless the young men as a whole do something more than they are doing at the present, the cry of the old hands will have some truth in it.

Their fathers certainly did not go in these huge crowds to look on at baseball games and pay men to play the game for them; they played the game themselves. And they played the game themselves in whatever line of endeavor they took up.

They did not sit down like a crowd of women and children and leave it to others to defend their country for them; and you may be sure that, had the present difficulty come in their day of crowded cities with mases of boys growing up uncared for and unhelped, they would have taken a ready hand in the game of getting hold of the lads and setting them on the right path for good citizenship.

Personally, I don't think so badly of our young men as some authorities appear to. I believe that their apathy comes from the fact that the point has never been suggested to them, and I am confident that there are numbers of them who are manly enough to do something for their country if they were shown that:

The country needed their help.

There was an easy and very sporting way of giving that help.

These two points—especially the later—are gone into in the official manual of boy scouting.

The main point is to get the idea introduced to young men of the right stamp. The press of course can do an immense amount of good in this direction; but so can men who are past the age of scouting, and can also ladies of every class. If they would set themselves to getting young men to take up the care of a few boys apiece, if only for a few weeks, to read scouting to them, they would be doing a good service to their country.

MRS. HOPKINS HELPED QUALEY TO BUSINESS

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—With the return of Mrs. Ellen Dunlap Hopkins to this country to aid in the defence of her friends, John A. Qualey and Harvey Wiley Corbett, against the charge that Mrs. Marie Nevins Bull makes, that they swindled her out of $35,000 when they induced her to invest in the Magnesia-Asbestos Company, it has become known that Qualey's first prosperity as a promoter came immediately after his introduction to Mrs. Hopkins.

Qualey was dabbling in copper mining propositions and had met with indifferent success when he met George Haldorn, a lawyer, of No. 42 Broadway. Mr. Haldorn is interested in the National Railroad of Hayti, and is said to be its agent in this city. He was at one time one of the numerous counsel in the employ of former Senator William Clark, of Montana. Several years ago he was a guest at the home of Senator Clark in Butte. Qualey was in Butte at the same time and the men met at a reception given at the Clark mansion.

Qualey's terrific energy and his enthusiasm over his scheme for a magnesia plant, made a great impression on Haldorn. Qualey is said to have asked Haldorn if he knew anybody who could put him in touch with persons of wealth who might be induced to finance his scheme. Haldorn, it is claimed, told him that he knew Mrs. Ellen Dunlap Hopkins, and that she was a business woman of rare ability. Later he introduced the two and they have been almost steadily associated in business ever since.

Up to three days ago Haldorn lived at the Waldorf-Astoria. It was said there that he had departed for good. He left no address behind him. A friend, however, said he met Haldorn last week, and that the lawyer told him that he was going to sail for Europe some time this week.

CAPT. BENISON GETS A STAY IN SMUGGLE CASE

Captain H. M. Benison, of the Cunarder Saxonia, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Charles K. Darling, in the United States Circuit Court rooms in the Federal Building, in connection with the smuggling into Boston of eight Chinese. The complaint as made by Assistant United States Immigration Commissioner Jeremiah J. Hurley charged that Captain Benison "on the night of August 11, did unlawfully, wilfully, knowingly and negligently fail to prevent the landing of eight Chinese persons from his ship, into the port of Boston, contrary to the United States statute."

Bail Fixed at $2,000.

Captain Benison pleaded not guilty. He was held in $2,000 for his appearance at a hearing September 10. Bail was furnished at once by Councillor Walter S. Glidden of the Governor's Council.

In response to a summons, Captain Benison went to the office of Assistant District Attorney E. Mark Sullivan. There he was formally placed under arrest by Deputy United States Marshal Charles A. Bancroft. He was accompanied into the courtroom by Charles A. Stewart, Boston agent of the Cunard line. The captain was dressed in a natty gray suit with white waistcoat and straw hat. He appeared to be nervous.

Case Put Off Until September 10.

Through his counsel, Putnam & Putnam, he pleaded not guilty. Assistant District Attorney William H. Lewis conducted the case for the government. Attorney Lewis asked that Benison be held in $2,000, the same amount fixed for two Saxonia men who were arraigned on similar charges on Saturday.

The defence asked for a continuance until September 10, explaining that the Saxonia sails to-morrow, but will return in time for Captain Benison to appear September 10. The continuance was granted. Captain Benison returned to the Saxonia.

RIVER VICTIM IS NOT ROXBURY MAN

William D. Mahoney, who lived at No. 17 Bromley street, Roxbury, and moved from there about six months ago, is not the man whose body was found in the river at Edgewater, N. J. He now lives at No. 6 Newark street, Roxbury, and was seen at his home to-day. He said he had not been in New Jersey for twenty-five years. He does not know any other William D. Mahoney in Boston. Two others of the same name appear in the latest Boston directory, one, a marble cutter, lives at No. 420 West Fourth street, South Boston, and the other works at No. 450 Washington street and boards at Watertown.

RICH MAN DRIVEN TO SUICIDE BY DREAMS

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Aug. 15.—Spurred on by nightmares in which he saw his father, who had committed suicide, urging him to do likewise, Charles Walther, a manufacturer, ended his life with gas on Aug. 1. He was discovered and rushed to the Bridgeport Hospital, where his life was saved. He had grown despondent of late and confided to friends that he had been troubled by visions or dreams of his dead father, who committed suicide about 18 years ago last month. It seemed to him that his father was beckoning to him and he finally responded to the call.

WANTED WHISKEY, DRANK IODINE

Roger J. McDonough, aged thirty-two years, of No. 68 Taylor street, Dorchester, gulped down a few mouthfuls of iodine in mistake for whiskey at the home of his brother, Martin, No. 165 West Second street, South Boston, yesterday, and then began to shriek with pain. A patrolman broke in the front door and gave the victim an antidote of flour and water. Dr. Herbert J. Keenan treated McDonough and subsequently he was taken to the City Hospital. He is in a serious condition.

B. & M. TICKET OFFICE ROBBED

ASHLAND, N. H., Aug. 15.—In the absence of Fletcher Burnell, telegraph operator, from the Boston & Maine Railroad station, a package containing $357 belonging to the railroad was stolen from the ticket office. Burnell was absent from the station twenty minutes. When he returned he found that some one had pried open the window and made off with the package of money. There is no clew to the burglar.

STATE BARS COMMON CUP.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 15.—The Georgia Legislature proposes to abolish the common drinking cup in the interest of public health. Representative Brown of Atlanta introduced a bill making it unlawful to provide a common drinking cup on any railroad train or station, in any hotel, office building, factory or store, or at any public drinking fountain. A majority of the Legislature has declared for the bill and it will be passed at once.

HUNT FIREBUG IN DORCHESTER CENTRE

The State police are to-day assisting in the investigation of a fire on Dunbar avenue, Dorchester Centre. A change in the direction of the wind aided the firemen in checking the blaze that at one time gave evidence of serious proportions. Starting in the stable of J. A. King, at No. 3, the fire spread to an adjoining shed and also damaged dwelling houses at Nos. 5 and 7. Nine-year-old Leon T. Cook, son of Spencer L. Cook, who resides at No. 7, saw smoke issuing from a crevice in the wall of the stable and gave the alarm.

This is the third suspicious fire that has recently occurred in the Dorchester Centre section.

URGE LAWS TO PROHIBIT ALL GLOVE BOUTS

The passage of State laws that make prize fighting a criminal offence and hold the promotors of it as violators of the law is advocated by some of the members of the National League to Stop Prize Fighting.

Others suggest that a good way to get rid of the evil would be to pass a law that prohibits glove contests of all kinds and the removal from local authorities of the right to license such exhibitions.

Here are some of the letters received by the BOSTON AMERICAN to-day on the matter:

Representative John Carr, chairman board of directors First National Bank, Boston—In my opinion the best way to abolish prize fighting is to pass stringent laws in regard to it, making it a criminal offence for all parties participating in or promoting one, and then enforcing them rigorously. I might say more, but this is sufficient, if backed up by the best public sentiment.

Would Stop All Contests.

Representative George A. Brigham, Northboro—It seems to me that while a Federal law prohibiting prize fighting would be the most expedient, yet it is probably very doubtful if such a law would be passed by the National Congress, as the interference with State rights, etc., would without doubt enter into it.

What I would like to see is the State of Massachusetts set an example by passing a law in the next Legislature prohibiting club exhibitions of boxing or glove contests, so called, of every kind, and making a statute which would take from local authorities the right to license such exhibitions in any way, shape or form.

W. T. Pike, Stark, Coos County, N. H.—My suggestion can all be expressed in two words—agitate, legislate.

Maine Justice's Opinion.

Justice H. H. Wheeler, Etna, Me.—If I were to make a suggestion as to the most efficient method to stop prize fighting I should say that it would be for the Legislatures of every State to enact a law against it, then for the proper authorities to enforce such a law and punish any one who broke it.

Now, Maine has a law against prize fighting, with a penalty of not less than ten days nor more than six months imprisonment, or by a fine not exceeding $200. But the law is not enforced. Many contests which amount to prize fights are carried on, but go on the name of boxing matches.

A law is of no consequence unless it is enforced, and so I know of no better way, or other way, to stop prize fighting than to make stringent State laws against it and then have such laws enforced.

WELLMAN CRAFT READY FOR TEST

GLOUCESTER, Aug. 15.—Walter Wellman expects that his dirigible balloon "America" will be ready for its trial trip by the first of next week, and immediately after that he will start in his attempt to make the first trans-Atlantic aerial trip.

Mr. Wellman is here to purchase instruments for his long flight.

"My purpose in making this trip," he said, "is to demonstrate the value in war time of a motor-propelled air ship, and of course I want the honor of being the first to make this sort of a trip.

"I have no objective point on the other side, and am indifferent whether the landing shall be in Norway or the northern coast of Africa.

"I shall endeavor, as far as possible, to hold to the steamship lane, so that should we have an accident we can drop to the water and summon aid by our wireless outfit."

FALL KILLS FORMER REVERE LIFE SAVER

William J. Murphy of Boston, for thirteen years one of the Revere Beach life savers, was instantly killed by falling from a fifth story window at No. 5 Greenwich avenue, New York. He was 40 years old and was a salesman. He was one of the most daring as well as one of the most expert swimmers in the country. His physique, according to the physicians, was as near perfection as could be found. He rescued over sixty persons during his service at Revere.

He leaves a widow and resided here at No. 42 Hancock street.

DEATH COMES TO FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE

FAMOUS TRIBUTE OF POET LONGFELLOW TO MISS NIGHTINGALE

So, in that house of misery,
A lady with a lamp I see
Pass through the glimmering gloom,
And flit from room to room.

And slowly, as in a dream of bliss,
The speechless sufferer turns to kiss
Her shadow as it falls
Upon the darkening walls.

On England's annals, through the long
Hereafter of her speech and song,
A light its rays shall cast
From portals of the past.

A lady with a lamp shall stand
In the great history of the land,
A noble type of good,
Heroic womanhood.

—Longfellow's poem, "The Lady with the Lamp," writen as a tribute to Florence Nightingale.

LONDON, Aug. 15. — Florence Nightingale, the famous nurse of the Crimean War, and the only woman who ever received the Order of Merit, is dead at her London home. Although she had been an invalid a long time, rarely leaving her room, where she passed the time in a half recumbent position and was under the constant care of a physician, death was somewhat unexpected. A week ago she was quite sick, but later improved, and on Friday was cheerful. During that night symptoms developed, and she gradually sank until an attack of heart trouble brought the end. Her funeral will be as quiet as possible, as was her wishes.

On May 12 last she celebrated her ninetieth birthday, and was the recipient of a congratulatory message from King George.

Florence Nightingale was born May 12, 1820. She was the first woman to follow a modern army into battle as a nurse and in the Crimean War gained the title of "Angelo of the Cross." She studied nursing under the Protestant Sisters of Mercy at Kaiserworth, Germany, and returned to England when the Crimean War began. She organized a corpse of volunteer nurses, whom she led into the field, and was especially celebrated for her noble services at Scutari.

At the close of the war she was enabled by a testimonial fund, amounting to $250,000 to found an institution for the training of nurses, the Nightingale Home at St. Thomas's Hospital. She was also the means of calling attention to the unsanitary conditions of camp hospitals. In 1908 she received the freedom of the city of London. King Edward bestowed upon her the Order of Merit, the most exclusive distinction in the gift of the British Sovereign. The membership of the order is limited to twenty-four and it includes Wolesley, Prince Yamagata and Admiral Toga.

SIX RESCUED FROM DEATH IN BOAT CRASH

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 15.—A party of six New Yor yachtsmen had a narrow escape from death when the handsome forty-five-foot yawl Fidello of the Brooklyn Yacht Club was run down off Point Judith by the tug Vigilant, owned by Williams Brothers of New York. Captain C. T. Smith of the yawl was the only man on deck at the time, while in the cabin asleep were eKnneth S. Ferguson and Frederick K. Fox and M. Z. Clark, who are both entered for the national tennis tournament here. The yawl began to sink immediately and Captain Smith aroused his slumbering companions and, barely awake, clad in their pajamas, which was all they saved from the wreck, they dived overboard.

NEWTON CENTRE P. O. CLERK ARRESTED

Francis W. Preston, for the past four years employed as a clerk in the Newton Centre branch of the Boston Postoffice, will be arraigned to-day on the charge of larceny from the mails. For the past six months complaints have been received from residents of Newton Centre that they had money and letters stolen which had been sent through the mails. A test letter was sent, and the result was Preston's arrest.

LOSES 20-YEAR FIGHT TO PROVE CLAIM AS WIFE

Mrs. Edward Everett, it was learned here to-day, has lost her twenty-year fight for judicial recognition as the legal wife of Edward Everett, a prominent lawyer of this city. An order just entered in the New York State Supreme Court at Brooklyn refuses the woamn's plea.

In 1878 Mrs. Everett was Georgia Lillian Hinman, eighteen, whose parents conducted a boarding house at No. 15 Mt. Vernon street, this city.

That year, while a member of a party of young people on an excursion to Providence, she jokingly consented to participate in a mock marriage with William G. Morrison, who subsequently told the girl and her parents that the marriage was real.

For a few months the couple lived together. A separation came when Morrison admitted that the woman had been deceived by a mock marriage.

In 1884, she claims, she was married to Edward Everett in Brooklyn by a court official. The couple lived in this city four years.

In her several suits Mrs. Everett contended that in 1888 she signed, by request of Mr. Everett, a paper agreeing to annulment of marriage with the understanding that there would be a remarriage by a clergyman, but the agreement was never consummated.

Mr. Everett, who is wealthy, is a lineal descendant of the renowned Edward Everett of Massachusetts.

LABOR ORGANIZED FOR FALL CAMPAIGN

Organized labor's political cam-aign to-day is officially opened, following a big mass meeting of the Central Labor Union Political Activity Committee attended by the representatives of 114 local unions at Wells Memorial building yesterday. "We will elect our friends and defeat our enemies," is the slogan adopted by the trade unionists. The union men turned down all efforts to ally their organizations with the socialists.

William H. O'Brien, acting president of the Central Labor Union, was elected permanent chairman of the political activity committee. Fred J. Kneeland of the Painters' Union was elected permanent secretary.

SLAYER OF YOUNG AMERICAN ESCAPES

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Gustave Rist, Sr., of Bloomfield, N. J., whose son, Gustave Rist, Jr., a young mining engineer, was murdered in Peru last June, has received a letter from Hamilton Frazier, who is connected with the Riconada Mining Company, of Porto, Peru, which states that the murderer of his son has not been captured. Young Rist was slain while entering his bungalow at Porto. It is alleged that a Spaniard by the name of Vicarro made statements that he killed the young engineer.

WHO DO YOU THINK GOT BEST OF THAT DEAL?

Well, that Red Sox baseball deal is certainly the topic of the sporting hour.

It hasn't taken the fans of Greater Boston—and of all New England, too—very long to respond to the baseball contest instituted by the BOSTON AMERICAN.

While the $100 in prizes offered by the BOSTON AMERICAN is of lively interest to the fans, it is evident, also, that the matter of that baseball deal itself is something the fans like to write about.

Answers to the contest are pouring in with every mail. They come from Boston and all over the New England map. They are postmarked from city and country places, from the business sections of Boston and from rural crossroads.

There is no uncertain tone about the letters. Every fan has a decided, clean-cut opinion.

They think a certain way and they tell why they think so. They write vivid, snappy opinions about Lord, McConnell, Smith and Purtell. They write what they think about the deal and about the effect it will have on the Red Sox.

The majority are against the deal. A few favor it. Following are sample letters from a basket-full received to-day by the BOSTON AMERICAN'S Baseball Contest Editor:

To the Baseball Contest Editor:

Chicago clearly profited in the trade by which Lord and McConnell went to the White Sox in exchange for Purtell and Smith, an inferior third baseman, and a crippled pitcher. Smith may show up well with the Red Sox behind him, but with Chicago he has had hard luck and he can well be spared, when Chicago is getting a brilliant infielder like McConnell in return. As to getting Lord for Purtell, a glance at the records will show conclusively that Chicago is getting the long end. Lord and McConnell ought to inject a lot of life into the White Sox, and they will fit very nicely in White Sox infield, and at the top of their batting order, in fact with their great string of pitchers and a rejuvenated infield Chicago ought to make a great bid for a first division berth. By losing Lord and McConnell, who with Gessler, Wolter and Niles, all of whom have been traded, helped to earn Boston the name of Speed Boys. Boston will lose a great deal of its aggressiveness and may soon become the (speedless) Speed Boys, in fact the last four games in Chicago seemed to entitle them to that name already. Boston fans are disgusted with such bonehead trading by the erratic management.

E. H. HEALY.

No. 76 Lindsey street, Dorchester, Mass.

Baseball Contest Editor:

I think that the Red Sox got the best of the deal between Lord, McConnell, Smith and Purtell because both Smith and Purtell are young yet, while Lord has played good ball since he has been with the Red Sox, but he is all in now and is sure to go on a slump, while Purtell was the leading third baseman last year and is a comer. He is also young yet. McConnell has just come out of the hospital from undergoing an operation for appendicitis which will be a very great handicap to reaching wide balls. Lord is very sore, also. That is another reason for him not playing his best.

J. F. GUNN.

No. 5 Linden place, South Boston.

Editor of Baseball Contest:

Referring to the swap made between Boston and Chicago, I think Chicago got the better and Boston the worst by all means.

Boston lost the best third baseman they ever had or ever will have, and took in his place Purtell, a man who is a good third baseman, but not in it with Harry Lord. While McConnell is a good second baseman, they took in his place a pitcher, who is all right at that, but it is a rattling good second baseman Boston needs and not a pitcher. Boston will doubtless see the mistake before the season is over.

L. C. LAWLESS.

No. 163 Union street, Brighton, Mass.

Baseball Contest Editor:

Which wins? Certainly Chicago does. The "hitless wonders" get a first-class batter in Lord, whose average last year was [illegible] and this year .259, the falling off being due to his ill health. His experience should strengthen the team twenty-five per cent. Chicago has a good string of pitchers and can afford to exchange Smith.

McConnell seems to be an even exchange for Purtell; at any rate, his loss will not be felt to any great extent.

I think on the whole that Chicago got the big end of the deal, and that the wisdom of the Chicago management will be shown before the end of the season. Here's good luck to Smith and Purtell.

RED SOX AND BROWNS PLAY FOURTH GAME

BATTING ORDER.

BOSTON.	ST. LOUIS
Gardner, 2b.	Stone, l.f.
Purtell, 3b.	Hartzell, 3b.
Speaker, c.f.	Wallace, s.s.
Stahl, 1b.	Neuman, 1b.
Wagner, s.s.	Schweitzer, c.f.
Lewis, l.f.	Griggs, r.f.
Hooper, r.f.	Truesdale, 2b.
Carrigan, c.	Killifer, c.
Collins, p.	Ray, p.

The Red Sox will meet the Browns in one game to-day and to-morrow will play a double-header. It will certainly be a bargain day in St. Louis to-morrow, for the Boston team will be asked to play two games and take a six o'clock train for Boston.

Yesterday's double win by the Red Sox has done much to straighten the team out, and they expect to get away with the next three games.

The Red Sox will be at home on Thursday to open a series with the Detroit Tigers. St. Louis, Cleveland and Chicago will follow in the order named.

The Boston team will then go over to New York for three games with the Highlanders, and on return for a series each with Philadelphia and New York, the final game of the season at the Huntington avenue grounds being scheduled with the latter on September 13. The Red Sox will close the season away from home, having about twenty games to play on the last trip.

SORG TO TRY TO LOWER WORLD'S COACHING MARK

Paul A. Sorg of New York, one of the leading patrons of the show horse in this country, and who for a number of years has been prominent as an exhibitor at our annual Brockton Fair, will attempt to lower the world's record for a coach and four, at the coming Grand Circuit meeting at the Empire City (New York) track, August 23-27.

The record for a coaching mile is 3:17, and was made by Mr. Sorg's noted team, consisting of the wheelers Tom Mountain and Brother Jack, and the leaders King of the Road and Queen of the Road. The record was made upon a half-mile track at Ogdensburg, N. Y., and over the fast mile course at Empire City, weather and track permitting, the present record should be materially lowered. Seven passengers must ride on the coach.

All the members of the Sorg four who will strive for a new record are docked trotters, and one of the leaders has beaten 2:10. The horses are quite famous at the country's leading horse shows and the strength of the four lies in their marvelous ability to retain an even trotting gait for long distances. Mr. Sorg will tool the coach himself at the trial for a new world's record, and the attempt will be watched with much interest, for record breaking trials of this kind are a novelty upon light harness tracks.

DOVES MEET CARDINALS IN DOUBLEHEADER

BATTING ORDER.

Oakes, c.f.	Sharpe, 1b.
Koney, 1b.	Miller, r.f.

Houser, s.s.	Shean, 2b.
Backman, p.	Burke, p.

The Doves will play a doubleheader with the Cardinals at the South End grounds to-day and the event will be featured by the presence of the chorus girls and members of the "Merry Widow" company.

The Doves are out to take both games to-day, and in a measure take away the sting of successive feats.

Manager Lake is going to try a new experiment. He has sidetracked the veteran slingers on the team, as they did not come up to the mark last week, and will trot out his youngsters, Billy Burke and Chick Evans. These boys have not had a chance to start a game and see what they could do in getting away with a full contest, but they will get the opening to-day to show what they are worth, and the team they face will not be such a tough proposition as the Pirates and Cubs.

It will be busy times while the Cardinals are here, with five games in three days. Oh, yes. To-day will be theatrical day as all the chorus girls and members of the "Merry Widow" Company will be invited up to see the Doves do a little trimming feat.

LANGFORD GREAT SIX-ROUND FIGHTER, BUT—

By ED. SMITH.

In skimming over the record of Sam Langford, squatty black of Boston, one is impressed by nothing so much as the fact that Sam'l, while a great finisher in quick order, does not seem to be so much with a man who is able to carry the fight along for six rounds or more.

And another thing that impresses one is the fact that Sam'l has been floored often in the early stages by men who do not count for much in the summing up of the pugilistic situation.

Langford just now is much in the public eye because of his utterance anent a fight with Jack Johnson for the title.

Sam'l Great Sprinter.

When one says that Langford is only a sprinter, and does not like the long route, the idea naturally suggests itself that with the large majority of opponents he is called upon to meet at this time he does not have to be anything but a short distance battler to win his scraps.

But supposing he is called upon to meet a first-class man in, say, a twenty-round fight. What then?

Langford seems to tire after he has gone a little distance.

He has knocked out more men inside of six rounds than any other fighter in the business, unless we except some of the champions who made a business of this sort of work in their theatrical trips through the country.

Since he became a really first-class fighter he has whipped but three men after the sixth round. They were Morris Harris, seven rounds; Larry Temple, fifteen rounds, and Jim Flynn, nine rounds.

Approximately thirty good men have fallen as a result of his punches before the end of the sixth round.

Yet Langford's record is speckled with ten, twelve and fifteen round decision and draw battles, his opponents in these invariably coming fast after the sixth round and earning an even break by outfinishing him. When Langford won a decision he invariably took such a long lead in the early stages that his opponents could not overcome it.

This is said to have been the case when he boxed Jack Johnson in Chelsea in 1906—Langford in the lead early, with Johnson easily outfinishing him after the sixth round.

Why do so many men tumble Sam to the carpet?

Meets Them Big and Small.

Iron Hague, English champion, knocked the little black as flat as a picnic sandwich in their English scrap. 'Tis true that Langford floored him for the full count in the fourth round, but suffered some fine belts in the jaw himself before he got over the finishing punch.

Jim Barry, the Chicago heavyweight, who had seven or eight fights with Langford, knocked him down several times in their different encounters, once having him so far gone, it is said, that the little black had a mighty close call.

Even Klondike, the black heavyweight, put Sam down on the broad of his back in their turn-up at Pittsburg not so long ago, and it would take quite a stretch of imagination to bring Klondike up to the front rank.

Possibly it is Langford's anxiety that brings about these upsets. He is a flat-footed boxer, and shuffles in after his man with his heels and toes planted firmly on the mat. He always seems willing to take a punch in order to land one—certainly a bad system for a first class fighter to use at any time. It certainly would be fatal in fighting a big and strong man like Jack Johnson.

Langford knocks 'em out with his right. He hits from a short angle with this weapon, but even at that has frequently "been beat to it" by a fast opponent. A right lead is always dangerous unless an opponent is wobbly, and Langford probab

Baseball News and Notes.

Dowd, the Holy Cross College twirler, who was turned over by the Pirates to Indianapolis, lost a 5-4 game to Milwaukee. He was touched up for ten hits.

Pat Donohue is not getting much show to do the catching for the Athletics since Thomas returned to form. Pat may come in handy, however, if injuries put some of the other catchers out of commission.

* * *

St. Paul players have no regard whatever for Tub Spencer, formerly of the Red Sox, now a baseball vagabond. They charge the downfall of their club to him, pointing out that he was never ready when wanted after the race got under way. In April he was a wonder.

Detroit papers assert that the Red Sox are travelling at top speed nowadays, and that the Athletics must hurry.

Bill Bradley, who was recently released by the Naps, and who a few years ago was regarded as the premier guardian of third base in the game, will probably come to Brooklyn, if the one-time star so desires. Dahlen is anxious to station Bradley at third base, as the work of both McElveen and Lennox has not been up to the standard. Bradley has had several offers, but is said to be seriously considering the one made to him by Dahlen. Bradley is expected to announce himself by to-morrow.

* * *

"Rube" Waddell goes to the minors. Too bad. He was a pitcher with a wonderful arm, but no noodle. He will be a good drawing card in the Eastern League, but what are the majors going to do for "goats," now that Raymond and Waddell have both passed?

Connie Mack denies the oft-repeated story that the Athletics are the lowest paid team in the American League. He says his players are among the best paid.

"Do you imagine my veteran players would have been contented to play year after year for less than other players receive?" says Mack. "My young players are a bright lot of young fellows and I couldn't pull the wool over their eyes if I wanted to."

Every time the New York players look at pitcher Ray Fisher they think of "Jack" Chesbro. Their every appearance, their every movement, is exactly alike.

"Ever see Chesbro any more?" Manager Stallings was asked.

"Yes, we saw him on a train down in New England the other day. He is pitching in the Old Mill League, an organization playing Saturday and Sunday games down there. Up to the time we met him he had won ten of the eleven games he had played. I think it likely that he could come back into the big league and hold his own right now."

Luderus is simply murdering the ball for Philadelphia. If Foxen proves a frost with the Cubs, the joke will be on Charlie Murphy.

* * *

Neal Ball, the ex-Yankee shortstop, who is now occupying that position for the Naps, wrenched his ankle so severely the other day that he had to be carried off the field. Neal had to be taken to a hospital, and it is said he will be out of the game for several weeks. This probably means Ball's retirement from the big leagues. The Cleveland management has been seeking to trade or sell Ball, but without success. Now that his speed will be impaired by his injured ankle, it is hardly probable that the Naps will have further use for Ball. Neal will be remembered as the only major league player who made a triple play unassisted.

The critics are as yet uncertain whether the name of Fanwell, the new Cleveland pitcher, applies to his pitching work or to his personal efforts at the bat.

Strunk, who promised to be quite a batting whale when the Athletics first set him to work, is laid up for the whole season with a damaged leg.

Bender and Coombs by their great pitching are in the main responsible for the high standing of the Philadelphia Athletics. Between them they have won 35 out of 44 games pitched. Plank, of the same club, has won 12 out of 19.

* * *

Although Bush of the Tigers does not have a good place in the batting order, he leads both leagues in run-getting.

RED SOX TAKE BATTING SLUMP

	Bat. Ave.
Strunk, Phil.	.382
Cobb, Detroit	.369
Lajoie, Cleveland	.356
Speaker, Boston	.342
Meloan, Chicago	.325

Oldring, Phil.	.302
Laporte, New York	.301
Murphy, Phil.	.295
Gardner, Boston	.294
Easterly, Cleveland	.294

Ty Cobb is still leading the American League in batting, although Lajoie is drawing close up on him. The averages show that Ty fell off nine points during the week, and that Lajoie forged ahead a lone point. Tris Speaker, like his rival from Philadelphia, did not hit with anything like his old-time regularity, with the result that he lost ten points.

A general falling off in batting all down the line marked the disastrous career of the Red Sox, the slight individual gains marked up by Wagner and Kleinow being the only saving feature of the team's concerted tumble.

Team batting suffered a three-point drop, while the team fielding was as good as the previous week. The Bostons were not attacked by a phenomenal batting streak on the part of their opponents, for the team batting and fielding of opponents are exactly at the same figures as last week.

The regulars bumped themselves down steadily and consistently. Karger led the list of batting losses with 12 points, Speaker and Stahl losing 10 each, Gardner 7, Smith 6, Hooper 5, Lewis 4, Carrigan 3, Engle 2. Wagner gained 2 points, Kleinow 6, Hall 1, Cicotte 3, Collins 7, Arellanes 18.

LIEUT. PHILOON TO COACH ARMY ELEVEN

Lieutenant Philoon of the 14th U. S. Infantry, stationed at Fort Missouri, has been recalled from the maneuvers at American lake, Washington, to assist in coaching the West Point football team the coming season. He was captain of the West Point team in 1908 and was chosen a substitute on the All-American team by Walter Camp.

WHICH WINS?

Who Got the Better of the Red Sox Deal?

$100

For the Best Answer.

The Boston American offers $100 in prizes for the best letters as to which side got the better of the bargain in the trade of baseball players between the White Sox of Chicago and the Red Sox of Boston.

The sensation of the year in baseball world was the exchange of the two fast, clever men of the Boston American team, Captain Harry Lord and Ambrose McConnell, for the brilliant players of the Chicago Americans, Pitcher Frank Smith and Third Baseman George Purtell.

The question as to which team got the better of the trade is being discussed on all sides, and there is much variance of opinion. To the persons who write the best letters on this question in 200 words or less the Boston American will award the following cash prizes:

FIRST PRIZE, $25.
SECOND PRIZE, $15.
THIRD PRIZE, $10.
FIFTY PRIZES OF $1 EACH for the next best fifty letters.

It is easy money. Get after it. Address your letters to BASEBALL CONTEST EDITOR, Boston American, P. O. Box 227, Boston.

DOVES GAIN IN BATTING MARKS

Becker, N. Y.	.306
Myers, N. Y.	.297
Wheat, Brooklyn	.295
Byrne, Pittsburg	.293
Graham, Boston	.290

Young Snodgrass of the Giants is certainly the batting marvel of the National League. His average for the week shows a gain of seven points, his standing to-day being 390. As it looks to the baseball fan who dopes out the situation there is no stopping McGraw's latest sensation.

The figures show that the Doves have boosted their batting average ten points, to .249.

The Doves' gain with the stick was offset by a lapse of six points in the field. Graham dropped below the .300 mark, but Sweeney, Collins, Abbaticchio, Shean and Smith made good gains. The work of the new outfielder, Sellers, has been good. He has hit for .231 and has fielded cleanly. The general tendency of the fielding averages has been down, but there were a few gainers, notably Beck, Smith and Sweeney.

Magee of the Phillies did a little better than hold his own in the week and is now but one point behind Campbell, the wonder from the northwest, whom Fred Clarke uses occasionally in the outfield.

Artie Hofman, Crandall, McLean, Wheat, Chance and Byrne are honor division men who boosted their marks during the week. Others of the honor set lost a few points, the biggest disappointment of the week being Hoblitzel, who lost several points, together with his position in the honor class. Hoblitzel has slumped steadily for three weeks now.

SELDEN PILOT CAR ATTRACTS AUTOISTS

The big Selden car which is acting as pilot in the Munsey historic tour, has attracted a great deal of attention since it left the factory in Rochester. A big, powerful affair, painted a dull grey, it looks particularly powerful and speedy. While absolutely stock in every respect, it looks a bit different from other Seldens on account of the fact, no doubt of the new coloring.

The characteristic yellow, pearl grey or Selden blue chassis used by this company are so well established in the minds of the automobile public that any departure from the colors causes some doubt as to the car's identity. The grey painting on the pilot car is similar to that used on torpedo models made by the concern. A stock color of course, but one that has never been seen on a Selden touring car before. For this reason, too, many along the route have been unable to identify the Selden until they have seen the gold "S," with red and blue background, on the hubs and radiator.

SPANISH SONDERS TUNING UP TO-DAY FOR TAFT CUP RACE

CORBETT PICKS BILL LANG TO WHIP KAUFMAN

Jim Corbett backs up the opinion of Tommy Burns about Bill Lang, and says the Australian will do. Both Corbett and Burns have been in action with Lang, and they contend that the Australian champion will whip Al Kaufman when they meet in their ten-round bout at the Fairmont Athletic Club, New York, to-morrow night, thereby winning a chance of going against Jack Johnson in Australia next Sp[illegible]

According to Corbett, the style of Lang is very much American. Burns can talk from experience. He battled twenty rounds with the Australian, and admits he was lucky in getting the verdict. Hugh McIntosh, who was referee of the bout, says that he awarded the decision to Burns because of his many leads, but that Lang was much stronger at the end.

With all of Lang's good qualities, the ability of Kaufman must not be underrated. When seen in New York last year the Californian was a bit raw, but he has improved so much that even Sam Langford, a prospective candidate for the heavyweight championship of the world, is charged with having been afraid to meet him in Philadelphia on last Thursday night in a six-round bout.

Kaufman gained a lot of knowledge about boxing while he was training six weeks with Jack Johnson for the latter's fight with Jim Jeffries. It is said that Johnson has told friends that Kaufman will beat Lang to-morrow night, and believes that he will be his best opponent for the heavyweight title.

ALLIE DICKINSON TO COACH NEWTON HIGH

Allie Dickinson, the former Brown and Somerville High School star athlete and coach, has ben appointed coach of the Newton High School football team for the coming season. Dickinson has ben very successful in the past as a coach, for he led the Somerville High School eleven last Fall to the championship of the State, and has been very successful with the baseball teams at Somerville the last two seasons. Dickinson played football and baseball at Somerville High School for four years and then went to Brown, where he played throughout his course on the baseball nine.

400 MARKSMEN IN SHOOT FOR BIG CUP

CAMP PERRY, O., Aug. 15.—The National Rifle Association of America opens its twenty-eighth annual matches at the Camp Perry range to-day. Among others a regimental team got in from the Second Connecticut to-day. For the association's matches the entries are the heaviest they have ever been. Nearly 400 open fire in the morning in the Wimbledon match.

In the infantry matches of the Ohio State Rifle Association, the winners in ten of which were announced to-day, New England took several honors.

ALLOW OARSMEN TO PLAY ON NAVY TEAM

ANNAPOLIS, Aug. 15.—The fact that the line of the Naval Academy Football team from tackle to tackle during the coming season will probably be made up entirely of midshipmen who were members of the rowing squad shows that the former feeling, that the football men should not row, has almost entirely disappeared. For many years this prevented the crew from getting hold of material it should have had.

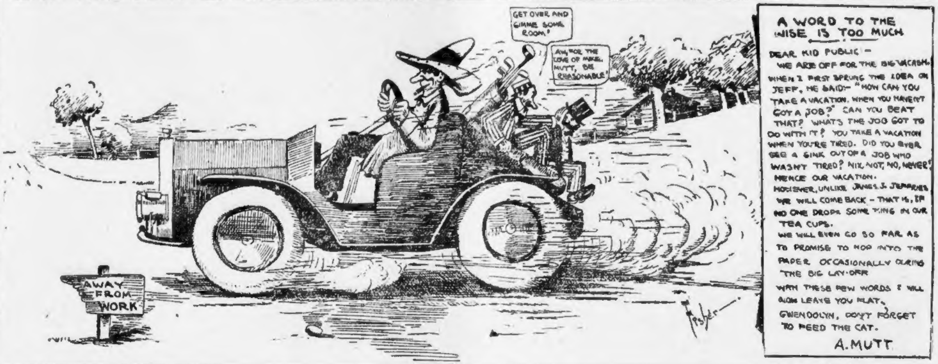
Vacation in an Auto is the Real Thing ♣ ♣ ♣ By "Bud" Fisher



GET OVER AND GIMME SOME ROOM!
AW, FOR THE LOVE OF MIKE, MUTT, BE REASONABLE
AWAY FROM WORK
Fisher

A WORD TO THE WISE IS TOO MUCH

DEAR KID PUBLIC—

WE ARE OFF FOR THE BIG VACASH. WHEN I FIRST SPRUNG THE IDEA ON JEFF, HE SAID:—"HOW CAN YOU TAKE A VACATION, WHEN YOU HAVEN'T GOT A JOB?" CAN YOU BEAT THAT? WHAT'S THE JOB GOT TO DO WITH IT? YOU TAKE A VACATION WHEN YOU'RE TIRED. DID YOU EVER SEE A GINK OUT OF A JOB WHO WASN'T TIRED? NIX, NOT, NO, NEVER! HENCE OUR VACATION.

HOWEVER, UNLIKE JAMES J. JEFFRIES WE WILL COME BACK—THAT IS, IF NO ONE DROPS SOME THING IN OUR TEA CUPS.

WE WILL EVEN GO SO FAR AS TO PROMISE TO HOP INTO THE PAPER OCCASIONALLY DURING THE BIG LAY-OFF

WITH THESE FEW WORDS I WILL NOW LEAVE YOU FLAT.

GWENDOLYN, DON'T FORGET TO FEED THE CAT.

STRAIGHT TIPS
FOR SPORT FANS

IS CON O'KELLEY A BEAR OR A RUMdum? You'd like to know, so would I, so would that army of O'Kelley's who hand out the suds in this burg. That's why I'm going to hang around the office to-night for a W. U. from a friend of mine in Syracuse. O'Kelley—sounds like a fighting name, doesn't it?—runs up against Al Williams in a 10-round bout. It's up to O'Kelley. If he wins, it gives his manager a chance to throw a little more bull about his being the original fighting Tad; if he loses—forget him.

A MAN WHO SAYS HE IS A FRIEND of mine hands me this. List to it. "If a man, working eight hours a day, and getting a Saturday half-holiday, loses one of his holidays and gets a full day in in lieu, doesn't he lose four hours? I say he does." I'm awfully sorry that he says he is a friend of mine. It puts me in bad. Incidentally what are the keepers of some of our institutions being paid for?

HAVEN'T HEARD ANY HOP TALKS from Sandy Ferguson's manager for a day or so. Wonder what can be the matter with His Royal Highness. I understand he is trying to hook Sandy up with Al Kaufman. Sandy would make a pretty good boy, if—well, we won't go into ifs now. George, a little tip!—Slip the roll under your shirt, but don't, don't bet it.

Straight Tips—Please tell me has a player the right to bat for two other men in one inning.
Springfield. ROBERT M. WILLIAMS.

Well hardly.

Straight Tips—Please tell me what the nationality of Rose Pitonof is? A says she is Polish. B says a Jew. Who is right?
Chelsea. WALTER LAMOYEDEN.

B is right.

Straight Tips—Please insert dates of the next Philadelphia-Boston games and Cleveland-Boston games at Boston.
Providence. INTERESTED.

With Philadelphia, September 7, 8 and 9. With Cleveland, August 25, 26 and 27.

Straight Tips—Please tell me how many rounds Langford and Ketchel fought?
Roxbury. CONSTANT READER.

They fought six rounds in Philadelphia.

Straight Tips—A bets that the auto goes to the best batter in the American League. B bets that it goes to the best in both leagues. Who wins?
Cambridge. MUTT CONNORS.

B wins.

Straight Tips—Who can I get some information from about the Boston Marathon race?
Stafford Springs, Ct. GEORGE J. ANDERSON.

Write to George Brown, Boston Athletic Association, Exeter street, Boston.

Straight Tips—Being a regular reader of your column I feel I have a right to say a few words that is choking me to keep down. Mike Murphy tells us how he picked the colored man to win. Why, oh, why, does a man who, by accident, picks a winner keep harping on it after it has become history? I don't expect an answer from you because he is writing for the same paper, but I would like to see this in your column.
Portsmouth. C. G. H.

Evidently you must have had a run-in with Mike and don't think much of his judgment. Take it from me, lad, [illegible] digest whatever Mike Murphy says and you will be wiser.

Straight Tips: To settle a bet what man is the best Marathon runner of the day. Please give the time of the fastest Marathon ever run in the world? What man is the most successful runner in the professional class in fifteen, twenty and twenty-six miles Marathons for the last five months. Give me Gustaf Longstrom's record?
Marion, Mass. U. G. E.

The Swede is about the best long-distance runner to-day. Shrubb, at his best, could beat them all under the Marathon distance. Longboat's best record is 2hr. 34min. 8 2-5secs.

STRAIGHT TIPS—Kindly inform me, through your column, what class the Southern League is in.
PRESTON WOOLLEY.
Fort Andrews, Mass.

Class A.

STRAIGHT TIPS—Please tell me where to address a letter so it would reach John L. Sullivan, our ex-champion.
Brockton. E. Mc.

He is on the Coast just now.

STRAIGHT TIPS—Please tell me did Fitzsimmons break Jim Jeffries nose or not, to settle a bet?
Northampton. E. S. L.

Yes, Fitz put Jeff's smeller on the blink.

Straight Tips—Please tell me the size of the purse in the Johnson-Jeffries fight.
Holyoke. M. H.

The purse was $121,000.

Straight Tips—Kindly give your decision on this argument. A says that three or four years ago a batter who knocked an infield fly which dropped inside the diamond was out whether the ball was caught or not, but that since then a rule has been made which says that the ball must be caught in order to put out the batter unless the ball is fielded to first ahead of the runner. B says there never was such a rule which called the batter out unless the ball was caught or fielded to first base ahead of the runner. Who is right?
CAPTAIN M., BALL TEAM.
New Bedford.

It's just within recent years that the trap ball rule was made.

Straight Tips—A says Boston was fourth in the league race last year at the close of the season. B says Boston came third. Who is correct? W. J. G.

Boston finished third.

Straight Tips—What happened to the Red Sox recruits Myers, Ehman, Barberich and Buzick?
Watertown. W. X. Y. Z.

They have been farmed out [illegible] minor league clubs.

BOXING NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD

Joe Woodman, manager of Sam Langford, sends in a steen-page letter in which he says he is ready to post the $20,000 that Jack Johnson demands as a side bet if there be a match between the two chocolate babies. He says that he has been willing to post the money for some time, but that he has been unable to find a stakeholder. "Let Johnson find a man to hold the money," writes Joseph, "and I will put up the $20,000 in a jiffy. Johnson must cover it immediately, however. The stakeholder, of course, must be a reputable man. Nix on that Hoboken stuff."

Stanley Ketchel's diamond belt, which he lost in San Francisco eight years ago, has been unearthed by a bellhop, who discovered it among some odd grips in the baggage room of a big hotel in the Golden Gate City.

Dick Hyland is anxious to join the bevy of lightweights that Hugh McIntosh is gathering together for his Australian trip. Dick feels that if Rudifer Unholz can make such a name for himself down there all he'd need would be a haircut and a shave to clean up the place. Dick handed Rudifer one of the best little lickings ever given a man here at Ulmer Park a year or so ago, and he never could get Rudifer to hook up with him again.

Johnny Summers, too, looks good to Dick. He's certain that if Hughey will add him to that little company there will be doings and then more doings when he arrives at the big island.

Jim Corbett is now doing a black-face stunt with a minstrel show, being the interlocutor kid. The only way they can beat that is to get Jeff blacked up, give him his little tea cup and have Artha Johnson for the end man.

A new boxing club to be known as the Reno A. C. will be opened at the former house of the Swedish-American A. C., Brooklyn, on September 6. Charley Lindberg, manager of Battling Dick Nelson, will be matchmaker.

MAKES OFFER TO MATCH TROTTER

William La Croix of Lynn, one of the most prominent patrons of the matinee trotter in New England, and owner of The Sailorman, 2:14¼, by Lookaway, 2:22½, dam, Fay, by Stamboul, 2:11, is not satisfied with the recent fast trots in the inter-club races at Combination Park, Medford, as a fair test of merit, and declares his willingness to match his clever trotter against Mack Mack, 2:08; Chase, 2:07¼; Carl C., 2:17¼, and Crown Prince, 2:22¾, for a race at Readville, best two in three, mile heats.

In speaking of bringing the inter-club trotting cracks together at Readville, Mr. La Croix stated to the AMERICAN that he would be very glad to race for the ribbons, although, if preferred, he would not hesitate to wager [illegible] at The Sailorman can take the measure of his rivals.

NOTED ATHLETE QUITS POLICE FORCE

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—John J. Flanagan, the world's champion hammer thrower, is out of the New York police department. He tendered his resignation on Thursday. Flanagan has been a policeman doing clerical work since 1903 until July 25 of this year, when the policemen on such details were assigned to precincts, and Flanagan's resignation followed. Captain Thompson said that Flanagan intended to go to Toronto, Can., where his brother Thomas Flanagan, is engaged in business.

8 TEAMS TO PLAY ASSOCIATION GAME

LAWRENCE, Aug. 15.—George Emsly presided at a meeting of the representation of teams in the Lawrence, Lowell and district association football league here. There will be eight teams in the league, Lawrence, British-American, Clan McPherson of Lawrence, Manchester, United and Manchester Light Blues of Manchester, N. H.; Bunting of Lowell clans, Johnson of Andover and Methuen. The first games will be played September 3.

WEYMOUTH FAIR RACES.

The Weymouth Agricultural Fair announces the following classes to be held in connection with its three days' program of events: 2:30 trot and pace, purse $150; 2:19 trot and pace, purse $250; 2:24 trot and pace, purse $200; 2:15 trot and pace, purse $250; half mile dash for matinee horses, purse $100.

Horse and Speedway Notes

The second series of matinee races of the Dorchester Gentlemen's Driving Club are announced to begin at the Franklin Field Speedway August 27.

Many of the horsemen who watched the race between The Harvester, 2:03¼, and Senoma Girl, 2:04¼, declare that the son of Walnut Hall could have stepped in 2.01.

Eddie McGrath, trainer for Shawsheen River Farm, Bedford, stepped The Hugenot (3), 2:27¼, the full brother of The Abbot, 2:03¼, and The Abbe (p), 2:04, a mile on Saturday at Readville in 2:14¾, and a half in 1:05. The son of Chimes and Nettie King, 2:20¼, by Mambrino King, looks better every time that Eddie turns him around over the track beneath the Blue Hills.

* * *

Jack High and John N. Pearson, secretary of the Manchester, N. H., Driving Club, were down for the inter-club races. These boys make a great pair to draw to and were loyally welcomed.

* * *

Gus Daily is back from Saratoga. He will be on hand for the September meeting at Hills Grove. Gus seems to think it would take the seventh son of a prophet to dope out the winners at the Spa.

Manager John W. Page has arranged a very clever futurity event for the three-year-old trotters, purse $500, for the Hills Grove race meeting September 5-9, inclusive. Among the well-known colts and fillies named are Director Todd, Silver King, Dictator Todd, Dunhelm, Merrow, Duntmo, Tenean, The Niece, General Dewey, Momentum, Intruder, Sunnybrook. A high-class field of baby trotters, and a race that will arouse much interest in New England.

Dr. F. J. Babbitt, president of the Lynn Driving Club, tells the AMERICAN that the club matinees will be resumed August 27 at Rockdale Park, Peabody.

James F. Young, chairman of the racing committee of the Old Colony Driving Club, announces the races for the annual Weymouth Fair, September 15, 16, 17. There will be a 2:15 trot and pace, purse $250; 2:19 trot and pace, purse $250; 2:24 trot and pace, purse $200; 2:30 trot and pace, purse $150; a race for colts and fillies, purse $100, and a race for matinee horses, half-mile heats, purse $100. Entries close with J. F. Young, Quincy, Mass., September 10. A very high-class program will be seen under Mr. Young's capable management and he should receive a rousing entry.

Dick McMahon it seems won $10,000, individually, on that Detroit race of Ross K., 2:02¼. The trick was certainly turned in the smoothest manner possible. Sir Richard is never late as a riser in the morning.

TENNIS BATTLE ON AT NEWPORT CASINO TODAY

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 15.—Play began this morning in the 30th annual United States lawn tennis championship tournament before the largest gallery that ever watched a tennis match here. Practically all Newport turned out to see the opening matches.

A long, drawn-out battle is the inevitable result of the tourney, as there is a record entry of 181, seventeen more than a year ago. The leading tennis players of the country try for the three national championships which are at stake.

William A. Larned of Summit, N. J., five times the national champion in singles, and for years one of the greatest figures in American tennis will defend his title against the winner of the All-Comers' tournament.

Harold H. Hackett and Frederick B Alexander of New York, doubles champions since 1907, will defend their position against two young Western stars, T. C. Bundy and Trowbridge Hendrick of California, who beat the best doubles players of the South, East and Middle West at Chicago.

Of great importance to the younger generation of players is th national interscholastic championship, which will also be settled during the coming week.

One powerful factor in the singles tournament will be missed, owing to the absence of William J. Clothier, the big Philadelphian and former champion, who is recovering from a serious illness. There should be no deterioration of play, however, with such experts as Beals C. Wright of Boston, former singles and doubles champion and internationalist, M. E. McLoughlin, the wonderful California youngster and internationalist who has beaten the best in the East, except Larned; N. W. Niles of Boston, W. F. Johnson of Philadelphia, the intercollegiate champion; C. R. Gardner of New York and many others of high rank.

SHEPPARD MAKES A 600-YARD RECORD

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Melvin W. Sheppard, the crack middle distance runner of the Irish-American A. C., lowered the 600-yard record at the Irish Volunteers games at Celtic Park, when he broke the tape after covering the distance in 1:10 4-5. It was the fastest time ever recorded for the distance in the history of athletics, cutting one-fifth of a second from "Tommy" Burke's figures, which have stood for fourteen years. Ten thousand enthusiasts cheered him as it was announced that not only had he lowered the 600-yard handicap, but had set new figures for the 300 and 350 yards, with 37 3-5 and 1:04 respectively.

HIGHLANDERS BUY ROCHESTER CATCHER

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The New York Americans have purchased Catcher Blair of the Rochester team and Pitcher Caldwell of the McKeesport, Pa., team. Caldwell will report to the New York Club on September 8, and Blair at the end of the Eastern League season.

Give Thanks For Life

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

(Copyright, 1910 by the American-Journal-Examiner.)

THANK God for life, in such an age as this,
Rich with the promises of better things.
Thank God for being part of this great nation's heart,
Whose strong pulsations are not ruled by kings.

Our thanks for fearless and protesting speech
When cloven hoofs show 'neath the robes of state.
For us no servile song of "Kings can do no wrong."
Not royal birth, but worth, makes rulers great.

Thank God for peace within our border lands,
And for the love of peace within each soul.
Who thinks on peace has wrought, masaic-squares of thought
In the foundation of our future goal.

Our thanks for love, and knowledge of love's laws.
Love is a greater power than vested might.
Love is the central source of all enduring force.
Love is the law that sets the whole world right.

Our thanks for that increasing torch of light
The tireless hand of science holds abroad.
And may its growing blaze shine on all hidden ways
Till man beholds the sillio ette of God.

The Bill Clerk's Black Eye

By KENNETT HARRIS

THE cashier looked at the slight discoloration beneath the bill clerk's eye with an expression of profound pity. Then he shook his head sadly, opened his mouth to speak and checked himself, substituting a significant cough.

"Go right ahead," said the bill clerk, encouragingly. "You won't hurt my feelings in the least, whatever you say."

"Far be it from me to utter a word that would give you pain," answered the cashier. "I was merely about to offer a suggestion that might, or might not, prove of value; but I decided to wait until my advice was asked for."

"You are reforming in your old age," said the bill clerk, sarcastically. "Do you think you can hold it until I clamor for it without rupturing something?"

"At the same time," observed the cashier, "it might not be out of place to mention, in a general sort of way, you know, that when I walk about in the dark where doors are likely to be left open, I generally strike a match to see whither I am drifting.

"If I happen to have no matches with me, it is my habit to check up to half speed and proceed with both hands extended in advance of me. I also feel cautiously with my feet before setting them down.

"In that way I manage to avoid obstacles that would mar the flawless beauty of my features if I collided with them. That's all, Johnny; I trust I haven't offended you by my freedom."

"Not at all," replied the bill clerk. "Only I didn't run into a door."

The Danger of Breaking Wood

"Indeed!" said the cashier. "Well, I may remark that breaking up kindling has its dangers, but these may be prevented by taking proper precautions. I would recommend the use of a saw to reduce the wood to proper lengths, after which it may be easily split without doing anything much worse than chopping off the end of a finger, or a such a matter."

"If I ever break up kindling, I'll keep that in mind," said the bill clerk. "I haven't yet."

"I see," remarked the cashier. "A man wants to be very careful how he stands close to a curving street car track," he continued. "Myself, I allow at least four feet of margin when a car is passing, and it is largely owing to this carefulness that the tail end of one has never swung inward and hit me in the eye, causing the contusions that now disfigure your sparkling optic. I suppose you will stand well back hereafter."

"I'm quite sure I will," declared the bill clerk. "Hereafter, too. I may say, however, that nobody threw a street car at me. I wasn't looking up at a safe that was dangling four stories above me when the rope broke, either. I didn't stand in front of an eight-inch gun while the crew was engaged in target practice and receive the deadly missile full on my starboard lamp, if anybody should ask you."

"It was mere speculation on my part," apologized the cashier. "Pardon me if I was wrong. I ought to have known that you accidentally kicked yourself, or that you were at the game on Saturday, when a hard swatted ball broke through the netting and knocked you galley west."

The Cashier Really Interested

"You might have known that, of course—if it had happened," said the bill clerk.

"Dear me! you quite excite my curiosity," said the cashier. "How DID you get the eye, Johnny?"

"I thought you'd get around to it," answered the bill clerk, making a tally in his notebook. "You're the fifteenth since I've started to keep track. I'll tell you how I got it. A fellow hauled off and biffed me one when I was quite prepared for it. I don't think it would interest you to see him now, because he looks just the same as he did before he hit me. He's a little under my height, and I should have judged he weighed ten pounds lighter, if it hadn't been for the crack he gave me. He isn't in the hospital. I think he's at a picnic to-day."

"Johnny, you're a wonder!" exclaimed the cashier, admiringly.

"Not at all," said the bill clerk, coldly. "I was just a little too fresh and funny with the wrong fellow. You're getting the same way yourself if you only knew it."

FEEDING THE CHICKENS.

THE wife of a literary man of the Indiana school who had taken up chicken raising as a side issue was telling of the poor success she had with a brood of eleven chickens. They seemed to be doing all right for a few days, she said, and then, one after another, they all died in the coop.

"What did you feed them?" asked the wife of a farmer neighbor.

"Feed them?" exclaimed the author's helpmate. "I didn't feed them; I thought a healthy young pullet like that should have milk enough for her chicks."

Need Attention in the Summer or Face Will Stay Covered.

Now is the time to take special care of the complexion if you wish it to look well the rest of the year. The August sun brings out freckles that will stay the rest of the Summer unless removed now with othine—double strength.

This prescription for the cure of freckles is the discovery of an eminent skin specialist, and is so uniformly successful that it is sold by Houghton & Dutton under guarantee to refund the money if it fails. Get an ounce of othine—double strength, and even the first night's application will show a wonderful improvement, some of the smaller freckles even vanishing entirely.

The Art of Being Graceful ♣ ♣ ♣ ♣ By Dorothy Dix

LOOK at this picture, girls. It is a portrait of the famous Russian dancer, Fraulein Gelker. It is reproduced here as an object lesson to show you what consummate grace and beauty a woman can throw into so simple and ordinary a thing as merely standing.

Observe the exquisite pose of the ballerina. Note the lovely line of the extended arms, ending in the half closed hand that makes you think of an opening lily. Then look in the mirror and see how you stand, shoulders hunched, or sagging forward; arms limp or hanging straight down, or akimbo, with your hands resting on your hips, and your elbows making an acute angle.

Which do you think looks the more like a living picture, you or the dancer? The dancer? Well, then, get busy, as she has done, and cultivate grace, because it is every woman's christian duty to add to the sweetness and light of the world by being as pleasing an object as she can for the public eye to rest upon.

Grace, Not Clothes, Needed

It's a bit stupid of women that in their frantic struggle for beauty they have pinned their faith to clothes, and overlooked the grace which is the only real, reliable, blown-in-the-bottle substitute for pulchritude of face and form.

Of course to be really beautiful you have got to be born that way. If nature bestowed upon you a saleratus biscuit complexion instead of one of peaches and cream, there is mighty little you can do to alter it. Also if you failed to draw a tall and willowy figure in the lottery of life, and got instead an apple dumpling shape, it is in vain that you starve yourself and try all the fifty-seven varieties of recipes for getting slight and svelte, for no woman by taking thought can add one cubit to her statue, or remove an ounce from her weight.

Likewise, while it is true that fine feathers DO make fine birds, it is not every one who is blessed with a purse that enables her to ameliorate her homeliness by an application of French gowns and fifty dollar hats.

On the other hand, the chief recommendation of grace as the understudy to beauty is that it is something that absolutely may be achieved by any woman, and, furthermore, it is something that may be had without money and without price.

To Be Had for the Taking

It is free, and is yours for the taking. Its only requirement is a little thought, and effort, and study.

When we say that a woman is stylish, we simply mean that she wears her clothes gracefully. She imparts an air of smartness to whatever she has on. Her hat is on at the proper angle. Her belts are taut. Her skirts hang evenly. Her clothes appear to belong to her instead of her belonging to them, and in the simplest cotton frock she looks more elegant than another woman does in an imported velvet.

Such a woman always gives an impression of being beautiful, whether she is or not. So does the woman who always fits in the picture, as they say on the stage.

This picture shows what grace a woman can put in merely standing.

She is the woman who never strikes an ungainly pose, who can lie in a hammock without sagging down like a load of bricks, who can sit in church or the theatre without sitting on the back of her neck, and who puts, not only her best foot, but the best side of her, forward.

You may not have thought of it, girls, but there is a way to sit, and a way to stand that will add 40 per cent. to any woman's good looks, and an uncouth way of doing the same thing that will discount her charms even more.

There never was a more vivid illustration of what being drilled in graceful poses means for a woman than was given by Evelyn Thaw during the two long trials of her husband, in which she was the cynosure of every eye. She had been the pupil of that great artist and connoisseur in beauty, Stanford White, and so well had he impressed her that it was remarked by those of us who watched her, that never once, by any chance, did she fall into any attitude that did not set off her beauty to the greatest advantage.

One Case in Point

If she looked straight in front of her, the head was held so that the profile was as clear cut as a cameo. If she looked up, the head and throat were tilted to an angle that brought out the exquisite lines of chin and throat. If she looked down, the head drooped like a weary flower on its stem, and each time, no matter what she did, you said to yourself that this was the most exquisite pose of all.

To a degree, any clever girl can acquire the art of being graceful. She can watch herself and cure herself of the habit of sprawling. She can refrain from sitting with her feet stretched out in front of her, and train her elbows to move in curves instead of jerky straight lines, and she can master the knack of melting into a chair instead of being a mere excrescence on it like a bump on a log. Few young women in these days of athletics and gaucherie have any comprehension of what a woman really can do with a couch and a cushion as a background. They are like the late lamented Mrs. Wilfer, who, when her daughter implored her to loll in the carriage, cried out, "Loll, Lavinia, I am incapable of such a thing."

A Worth While Study

And it's worth any girl's while to study what to do with her hands. A woman's hands should be literally her chief support in the fine art of being fascinating and attractive. They can say so much. They can be witty, they can be pathetic, they can be gay and debonair; they can be tender, alluring, caressing; they can flout, and beckon, and repulse. Did you ever watch Julia Marlowe's hands? They have a tongue in every finger tip, and you'd know what she was saying and doing if you could see them, even if you didn't hear a word she said.

And, by the way, the chief lesson that the stage teaches to women is how to be graceful, and if you want to make your theatre-going profitable this Winter just get a line on every actress you see and learn how to enter a room, how to sit and stand, how to pour a cup of tea, how to do just ordinary, common-place things in such a way that you impart to them an alluring charm.

The ungraceful woman, the awkward woman, who cannot come even into a room without stumbling over the rugs and getting the tail of her gown caught in the tables and smashing the bric-a-brac, is like the proverbial bull in a china shop. There is no place for her in polite society, and no adequate excuse for her existence anywhere.

IN Myra's eyes, when they are fixed on mine,
Are riddles dark to which I have no key.
She's rather careful what she lets me
see,
Though seeming innocent of all design.

Sometimes a sort of promise I divine,
With which her conduct does not quite agree.
And sometimes many meanings will combine
In Myra's eyes

A fruitless study, as you may opine,
And I admit; but it will always be
A very fascinating one to me.
Then it's the one way I am sure to shine
In Myra's eyes.

To-day's Best Story

THERE is a dainty five-year-old girl who is the delight of a fashionable apartment hotel in West Philadelphia. Much association with grown people has given her many serious little ways which contrast strongly with her tender years.

Of late she has been saving her pennies to buy a birthday present for her father, and as the time draws near she has been much in doubt as to what she should get.

Recently she was in a street car with her mother when an inspiration came.

"I know what I'll buy father for his birthday," she said.

All the passengers smiled at her eagerness and listened indulgently to hear what she might say. Looking at her mother she said, so audibly as to be embarrassing: "I'll buy him a bottle of beer."

No Time to Be Polite

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

FOUR young people sat eating their luncheon.

Down the length of the dining room walked a little girl about ten years of age.

"Oh," said one of the young women, in the party of four, "here comes that dreadful child."

She said it very distinctly, every one in that part of the room could hear her, the child's mother among the rest.

The mother looked pained and malignant, and the young people burst into rude laughter.

Their conduct showed them to be ill-bred, and yet, so far as clothes went, they were the smartest looking people in the hotel.

The ill-breeding that prompts a person to make an unkind remark and then laugh at it is the worst of all kinds of ill-breeding.

How Some Girls Can Be Rude

The mother's feelings were deeply hurt at the audible and unkind criticism of her child, but she bore the rudeness in a dignified way that proved her to be a lady.

Have you ever noticed the way in which a group of girls can make an outsider feel uncomfortable?

They either talk of things she knows nothing about, or whisper among themselves. They may not mean to be rude, but they succeed in making the girl feel thoroughly uncomfortable.

The girl who steps out of her litle circle and graciously bids the stranger welcome, is performing a very kind and courteous act.

I know one woman, a member of a little group of women friends, who always objects strenuously to any stranger being brought within the circle in any but the most formal way.

She has made numerous enemies by her rudeness to strangers, and, at heart, she is a very good woman; she simply cannot bring herself to be gracious.

Many Americans are brusque and short of manner. It is a quality which must be fought against.

Too Hurried to Be Polite

One trouble is that every one is in such a desperate hurry.

In too great a hurry in the morning to have time to say "Good morning" courteously.

In too great a hurry, when you almost knock somebody down, to stop and say, "I beg your pardon."

In too great a hurry all day long to have thought for anything but getting there as fast as possible.

True politeness comes from the heart and is not a matter of education.

I know an old woman—she has been cook in one family for over thirty years—who could not do a rude or vulgar thing. She is a true lady, and her gentle, refined old face shows it.

Have No Claim to the Title

And I know some women who pass as ladies who have absolutely no claim to the title.

The first step toward being polite is to be kind.

And that's something you can all be, if you really try.

Manners on the Beach

DON'T act as if the beach were your own particular stamping ground and everyone who hits on your special shady corner under the piers or takes the chair you have always hired is a rank intruder.

Don't think the beach a boudoir where lounging and negligee attitudes are permissible. If you are sleepy go to your room rather than take your naps spread out on the sands for the delectation of the multitude.

Don't make a hairdressing establishment of the beach. Your locks may be all your own, but the public is not interested in seeing them spread forth to dry. The practice of walking the beach after the bath with hair hanging is bad form.

Don't make a garbage heap of the beach. If your own sense of order is not strong consider the throngs around you who are sickened by the peanut shells, loose papers, fruit pits and parings.

Don't make yourself a nuisance by loud talking, singing, or horseplay on the beach. When the desire to be boisterous comes over you get to unfrequented sands.

Don't be a beach bather. Oh! Those silly girls who don startling bathing suits each day and—never go near the water. It does not take long for the onlookers to spot the beach bather and comment accordingly. A good figure is just as noticeable in a well-cut gown as in an abbreviated bathing suit—and far more refined.

Don't think the beach your stage setting and the eyes of the multitude upon you. There is nothing more amusing than a girl posing for the benefit of the crowds on boardwalk and piers.

Don't think the beach a sort of clearing house of conventions. It is just as impossible socially to allow strangers to "pick you up" on the crowded beach as on the hotel veranda or city street.

Don't feel that "anything goes" on the beach or that "no one knows me in this crowd." Even if you do not care what the crowd thinks, there is sure to be some one from home to see and tell tales.

Don't, above all, feel the crowded beach the place for lovemaking. If spooning in public does not disgust you, have pity on the people around you.

Knowledge

By GERALD RUTLEDGE

WE know so much! We are so wise!
Where are the secrets of the skies?
Where are the secrets of the seas?
Gone all their little mysteries!

We sweep the heavens with a glass,
And chart for life each blazing mass.
It is, it was, and it shall be
Just thus, and so, we plainly see!

We drop a leadline in the deep,
And it is Ours; the things a-creep,
A-crawl, a-swim, five miles below,
Are like old friends, we'd have you know!

And so it goes; the world is small
To us who surely know it all!
Who know it all, below, above,
Save two small things, called Life and Love!

FRECKLES

Not necessary at all! These unsightly blemishes need not be tolerated. Can be banished by a simple treatment. How to remove them quickly.

It's astonishing how quickly and gladly people adopt successful beautifying methods. Take, for instance, the removal of unsightly freckles. Until the discovery of Kintho it was thought that there was absolutely no help for one so afflicted. Once freckled, always freckled. It's different now. No sooner do Summer sun and winds bring them out in all their unwelcome ugliness than thousands of women go to Houghton & Dutton's or Jordan Marsh Co.'s, get a two-ounce package of Kintho (extra strength, guaranteed to remove the worst freckles or money refunded), and presto! They are gone—almost overnight—Like Magic.

Here is live evidence—the writers of these letters are glad to tell what Kintho has done for them:

Kintho Mfg. Co.:

Dear Sirs—I wanted to give Kintho a trial; I thought it would be a failure, like all the rest I have tried. But no, indeed! I had not used a jar of the cream when you could see the change. Now my face is free from freckles, which I could never say before. You may use this letter if you wish to.

MISS MAC——
Jamaica Plain, Mass.

Kintho Mfg. Co.:

Gentlemen—Some time ago I bought a box of Kintho and used it according to directions, and I must say that I have never used any preparation that gave me such good results. My freckles are all gone, so I feel very grateful to you for it, and will certainly recommend it highly to my friends.

Very respectfully,
KATE ARKIN,
8702 State St., Chicago, Ill.

Kintho Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y.:

Dear Sirs—Having tried one box of your Kintho and being well pleased with the results, I wish another. If I send the money will you send it by return mail? Wishing you much success, I am yours truly

MYRTLE BRATTON,
162 N. Cleveland St., Memphis, Tenn.

Kintho Mfg. Co.:

Dear Sirs—I have used one jar of your Kintho, and am simply delighted with the results. I was always of the opinion that freckles could NOT be removed, but, seeing your advertisement, I thought I would give Kintho a trial, and it has truly convinced me that freckles CAN be removed. It has proven all you claim for it.

Yours truly,
MISS E. M. BERGER,
210 E. 8th St., Beloit, Wis.

Kintho Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y.:

Having used a jar of your Kintho which came from Seattle, and liking it very much, I wish to know if I can get it here in Portland, Ore. I think anything as good as it is should be on sale here.

MRS. N. P. CALLENDER,
258 13th St., Portland, Ore.

Kintho Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y.:

Gentlemen—I have used your Kintho and found it possessed the power to remove freckles and clear the complexion to my entire satisfaction. After giving trial to a great many preparations, I found none that can compete with Kintho. I have recommended it to many friends that think highly of the results derived from using the same. You may with my permission publish this letter. Yours sincerely,

STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

As a rule State street does not take much interest in congressional elections in the off years, but it is different this time. It is watching the preliminaries closely.

Security prices have discounted worse agricultural prospects than now are offered, and, while there may not be an extensive advance or some time to come, those who wish to invest will receive encouragement.

It is not an absolute necessity that the United States should have bumper crops in order to bring about export balances. A vigorous readjustment of inflated prices goes a long way toward righting things and putting the balance on the right side of the ledger.

The Street would like to see the Democrats carry the House of Representatives, because this would tend to block legislation. The Street is somewhat inconsistent in this, as it is clamoring to have the Sherman anti-trust act amended and something done to the tariff. That Sherman law is a very sore spot.

Directors of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Co. will meet for dividend action next week, and if a quorum is present, as seems likely, will declare another payment of 1¼ per cent., continuing the regular 5 per cent. rate.

Recent reports by many of the leading railroads call attention to the fact that those companies are now writing off a respectable sum for deterioration or replacement. Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific, expressed the belief some time ago that no railroad should spend much less than 70 per cent. of its gross receipts on operation and renewals. The Canadian Pacific is operated on about that basis, its operating percentage ranging from about 62 to 69. The result is that the system is in shape to withstand possible bad times and faces a crisis with an increase of dividends.

While the street has the benefit of monthly returns on the unfilled orders of the Steel Corporation, it will not know anything about the net earnings until the last week in October, when the regular quarterly meeting of the board of directors is held. The course of the Steel stocks has not much to do with the returns on the unfilled orders, as experience in the past has shown.

Southern Pacific could afford to pay 7 per cent. on its stock, but the probabilities are that it will not for some time to come, but will continue the 6 per cent. rate. So much money is being put into betterments and improvements of all sorts that whatever extra money may come into the treasury is needed. The stockholders can wait a while in the knowledge that their patience will be well rewarded.

It is the belief in the Street that those who are under Rock Island may take a notion to advance it a few points, but no extended rise is being looked for. No one thinks it will be selling at 50 again very soon, because that would take too much muscle. Traders are not inclined to follow it up very far, because of the danger.

The annual meeting of the Norfolk & Western Railway Company will be held October 13. This meeting has also been called to vote upon an increase of common stock of $50,000,000. Also to vote upon the creation and sale of an issue of convertible bonds of $50,000,000.

Though not much is heard of it, pessimism being so widespread, signs are beginning to appear of improvement in the demand for bonds. Bonds can now be sold to savings banks on the basis of 4.35 per cent. Whereas sixty days ago there was practically no demand for them from this source at any price.

Crops have made big strides toward successful maturity. Railroad earnings surprise even officials of the roads. Coupled with bank clearings—the two tests are indisputable—they mirror accurately some improvement in business.

There seems to be no question but that New York banks are in such shape as to make high rates this Fall extremely improbable.

LEADERS OFF AFTER OPENING

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The stock market opened to-day, with prices not greatly changed from Saturday's closing, but the undertone was generally firm. Buying was restricted to the professional element and appeared to represent some covering by short interests.

As a whole, the market showed the existence of some optimistic sentiment. The belief was more or less widespread that a technical position existed in favor of the bull interests, and it was said in several quarters that this interest included some of the most important in the street.

Union Pacific opened with an advance of a small fraction, but with others of the leaders of the list fell off as the session progressed. Amalgamated Copper was off half a point, but did not appear to be offered in any great quantity. Steel was almost unchanged at the opening and showed some little realizing.

After the market began easing off some of the more active securities began to lose ground and before long losses averaging a point were recorded.

ONE HALF A CENT and

One Thousand Million Dollars

Quite a Contrast There, Fellow Citizens

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Examiner.

Contrasts are ALWAYS interesting. If you see an eight-foot giant in the show you instinctively look around to find the eighteen-inch dwarf.

The woolly horse and the hairless Mexican dog enhance each the other's charm. And we should find greater pleasure in contemplation of the elephant if our range of vision would permit us to compare his size with that of the microbe that dances on his eyelash.

There is a contrast at the top of this column—a contrast in value and a contrast in type. And that contrast, as it appears, actually exists in this grand and glorious republic of "equality."

"We have with us to-day," as the after-dinner speakers say, at least one gentleman worth at least a thousand millions of dollars, and a great many gentlemen worth from five hundred millions down. Good luck to them, if they got their money honestly, and good luck to them anyhow, poor things. For they are not so very happy or beautiful, and they will all be dead in a little while at best.

We wish we could also say good luck to the great class of citizens for whose sake this glorious government of ours is contemplating the coinage of a half-cent piece, or a two-and-a-half-cent piece.

But, for those that need the two-and-a-half-cent or the half-cent piece, in order to meet the cost of living, by saving a half a cent now and then, happiness is not too optimistically to be hoped for.

The half a cent idea now taken up and seriously discussed by the Government is the suggestion of a New York banker, William H. Short. He says that the people need the half cent in their government coinage, and if they had it they could save thirty-nine million dollars a year.

If they COULD save that much let us have the half cent by all means.

But wouldn't it be a good and cheerful thing if some intelligent man, or somebody else, could invent some plan by which the ordinary little eighty millions of people could continue to ignore the half cent, and STILL get along?

We have contrasts in this country, indeed. Out in San Francisco people will not be bothered even with the one-cent piece. The five-cent piece is the smallest coin in general use out there—the one-cent copper piece is a sort of a pariah, or outcast.

Truly, the little and the big have travelled side by side in America. We have the individuals marching placidly on to the million, five million, ten million, hundred million, and thousand million mark. And we have the tens of millions of little people trudging placidly along to the tune of half a cent.

We have a sort of financial millennium, as good as the old spiritual golden age, prophesied as follows:

> "The wolf also shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid; and the calf and the young lion and the fatling together; and a little child shall lead them."

Now, the thousand million dollarite lies down with the gentleman who is calling for the half-cent coin—and almost anybody can lead the people anywhere he chooses.

It is interesting and historical to look back and establish striking contrasts. Our good old friend the French Queen, praying for thousands of louis with the women around her starving, formed an interesting contrast.

Charles the First, with his beautiful lace and velvet and satin, and Cromwell, with the bullet head and the fierce narrow views, make another interesting contrast.

Bill Nye and Michael Angelo are different. The Metropolitan Tower contrasts interestingly with the mud huts of the clay-eating Indians, which preceded it in our country—and the heavier than air flying machine forms a brilliant contrast with the ox-cart heavy as lead.

But no contrast is more interesting than that of modern finance—the thousand million dollar man leading a peaceable, philanthropic, earnest, quiet, unconscious life, in the land where the many millions begin to feel the need of a half a cent piece.

Do you suppose that we blame the man with a thousand millions, or the man with one million, or the man with a half million? Not a bit of it. They are playing the game as they found it when they were born, playing it as well as they know how. The man who needs a half cent to balance his housekeeping would have the thousand millions if he knew how to get them, and in the same way.

We blame nobody and nothing—but the lack of intelligence among educated men able to read and unable to plan and to vote together for their own protection, and especially for their own education and better enrichment.

The Crucible

O. HENRY'S LAST POEM

O. Henry did not often express himself in verse. The following is one of two poems found in a notebook after his death. In the first pages of the book was the other poem. At the end of the book, with blank pages between, came "The Crucible," which is here reprinted from the September Cosmopolitan:

HARD ye may be in the tumult,
  Red to your battle hilts,
    Blow give for blow in the foray,
  Cunningly ride in the tilts;
But when the roaring is ended,
  Tenderly, unbeguiled,
Turn to a woman a woman's
  Heart, and a child's to a child.

Test of the man, if his worth be
  In accord with the ultimate plan,
That he be not, to his marring,
  Always and utterly man;
That he bring out of the tumult,
  Fiter and undefiled,
To woman the heart of a woman,
  To children the heart of a child.

Good when the bugles are ranting
  It is to be iron and fire;
Good to be oak in the foray,
  Ice to a guilty desire.
But when the battle is over
  (Marvel and wonder the while)
Give to a woman a woman's Heart, and a child's to a child.

The Case of Fowler

By THOMAS TAPPER

I.

FOWLER married four years ago on an income of $120 a month.

Despite the "two can live as cheaply as one" proverb, the end of the month and a depleted pocketbook were regular coincidences.

At the end of the year 1906, as the result of the Christmas expenditure, Fowler was in debt. He went to a banker who had been a friend of his father and requested the loan of $100. Having known the young man's father intimately, and Fowler himself from childhood, the loan was made without hesitation.

"Fred," the banker inquired, "how are you making it, now that you and Clara are married?"

Without any withholding of the facts Fowler told the banker of his financial affairs.

"The fact is," he said, "I need more money, and in so small a town as this it is impossible to earn more."

"No," said the banker, "you don't need more money just now. It wouldn't change the top of your head nor the state of your affairs at the end of the month. What you need more than money is system.

"Now I have known you and Clara ever since you were children, and I am sure I may speak plainly, may I not?

"Very well. To begin with, I am going to sell you a first-class $500 bond, running twenty years, and paying 5 per cent. interest. Now you must pay for this bond no less than $25 per month. At present your legitimate expenses are comparatively small. The source of your trouble is waste, waste in little things.

"Oh, yes, I know you don't think so, but that is the secret of no savings in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred. Now try the plan that I suggest. If it fails I release you on the bond obligation.

"You draw your salary montnly, do you not? Good! On the first of January you give Clara $60 and keep $60. Let her pay the helper, the house charges and her personal expenses. You pay the rent, fuel telephone (if you have one), and your personal accounts.

"One the last day of the month I shall expect both of you to bring me $12.50 each. BOTH of you, mind you. Don't you come with $25. Make Clara bring her share. When husband and wife begin mutually to save, a little fortune is assured; never forget that."

II.

FOWLER remarked afterward, that the only thing that sustained him on the way out was the $100 that he had succeeded in borrowing. He went home, talked it over with his wife, found her willing to try the plan, and forthwith they began on $60 a month each to face the world.

"I had two inspirations," said Fowler to me afterward. "The first was that we were working together for our common good; the second was I wanted that bond.

"The first few months we just managed to pay the $25. Then we began to keep a strict account of every penny expended, to cut out all unnecessary waste, of which we found there was quite a little; and we paid for the bond and the $100 I borrowed in two years.

"The bond and its coupons (there were only thirty-six of them when I received it) inspired me to have another. We have systematized our expenses and can generally save more than 25 per cent. of my salary. I shall have my second bond in about four months if all goes well. Then I am going to take out as much straight life insurance as can be bought with the interest. When that is accomplished I propose investigating the building and loan association business and stop paying rent.

"I am glad I had to borrow that $100, for it was a knock from the hand of Opportunity which I happened to hear."

Aids for the Young

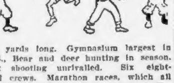
By C. B. QUINCY

EXCESSIVE advertising by colleges is deprecated by Dr. Pritchett, of the Carnegie Foundation. These ads are unlike those of the schools, which address the fond parents.

"Home life" is one of the most popular points of insistence in the school list of attractions, although the boy at school misses hearing his daddy's excuses on coming home late for dinner. Perhaps this is one of the reasons college men do not make good husbands.

The majority of the school advertisements run like this, however:

"St. Deniol's School for Boys—300 acres of ground. Football, baseball, basketball, hockey, polo, lacrosse, socker and hurling teams. Swimming pool six hundred yards long. Gymnasium largest in U. S., Bear and deer hunting in season. Duck shooting unrivalled. Six eight-oared crews. Marathon races, which all pupils must enter, twice a week. Unequalled preparation for all the leading universities."



Thus, if a father wants his son to become a Marathon runner he naturally sends him to St. Deniol's, where the headmaster specializes upon this subject. If the father should destine his son for an oarsman, he would select some school the situation of which has caused it to lead in rowing and aquatic sport generally.

On the other hand, if he desires to make a student or professional man of his boy, and gets his ideas from the ads, he would enter him in a correspondence school. In the ad of a correspondence school you do not find mentioned even the sport of chess, which seems so well adapted to correspondence purposes, but instead this:

"President.	Poet.
Physician.	Carpenter.
Beef Baron.	Blacksmith.
Scientist.	Astronomer.
Mathematician.	Mind Reader.

"Mark any of above with X, and we will do the rest."

Much the same rules apply to girls, although, of course, most of the ads dwell upon basketball instead of football.

The ads of the colleges, while usually indirect, are naturally more ambitious. It stirs the young mind beyond measure to read that last year five men were killed outright and seventeen maimed defending the goal lines of dear old Yarvard. Also is he filled with pride when he reads that the football team of dear old Jail cleared $175,000 on the season.

All this is very laudable and does a great work in calling attention to the advantages of an academic education. But here is the crucial point (as Dr. Pritchett points out with regard to another line of advertising)—the small college can run announcements that far outdo those of the great universities. Sweetwater College, for instance, might advertise seventeen killed and eighty-three seriously wounded on its gridiron, thus attracting some ambitious young student, who would be bitterly disappointed on learning that these figures had been grossly padded.

Perhaps, then, it would be better, in spite of modern tendencies, to cease advertising altogether.

The EVENING AMERICAN guarantees to advertisers the largest circulation by far of any daily newspaper in Boston and over 200,000 more than the next highest evening paper, and over 75,000 more than all the other Boston evening newspapers combined. Circulation books open to all.
